- 7b. Briefly describe the present physical description of the site or structure and describe any major alterations from its original condition:

This is a one-story wood-frame Craftsman house of H-plan, sheathed in horizontal wood siding and stucco, and capped with intersecting gable roofs. Two gable ends face the street joined by a central wing which is partially voided to create a porch. The porch is faced in fieldstone, with wooden railing and wooden posts surmounting fieldstone bases. A fieldstone chimney is contained in the gable end to the left of the porch. Stout angular brackets underpin the roof eaves. A shed roof dormer is on the gable slope above the porch.

SIGNIFICANCE

19. Briefly state historical and/or architectural importance (include dates, events, and persons associated with the site.)

This house is an important component of the Mastick Park subdivision begun in 1907 by C. C. Adams, Alameda realtor. It stands on an important intersection, and is one of the visual anchors of the area. It is an excellent example of the Craftsman style of dwelling as built in Alameda from c.1905 - c.1915. The builders were probably the Strang Brothers, an important Alameda firm of the time.
