HOMES ARE THE HEART OF ALAMEDA: Building Our Future

This event offers an opportunity for the public to hear plans from community leaders in building future homes at Alameda Point as well as other locations throughout Alameda and to address questions, such as:

- How does building more homes benefit the community?
- What are the goals in offering land for development of future homes?
- Why were these sites at Alameda Point selected?
- How will City staff include the community in the development process?
- What are plans for affordable housing and supportive housing?

- Panel: 10:00 to 11:45 a.m.
- Bus Tour & Lunch: 12:00 – 2 p.m.

The panel will be held in the Community Room at Independence Plaza, an excellent example of mixed housing, including affordable and market rate units. Following the panel and luncheon, participants will board a bus and visit several locations of affordable housing in Alameda including the recently opened Jack Capon Villas and Park Alameda as well as sites of future housing development sites at Alameda Point and in Alameda.

Event is Free but Seating is Limited – Please RSVP

Lunch provided to Bus Tour participants, so please indicate on RSVP if attending Bus Tour

The Alameda Home Team (AHT) is an outreach program to build support for homes to meet the needs of all of our community, including seniors, families, individuals and people with disabilities as well as market rate purchasers. AHT believes in the value of Alameda taking care of its own, knowing that a mix of housing types for all incomes creates vibrant neighborhoods, strong families, consistent education, and a healthy economy.

The Alameda Home Team is a proud participant of East Bay Housing Organizations' 18th Annual Affordable Housing Week. Visit www.ebho.org for more information.
