Mayor and City Council:

Please find attached the spreadsheet of red light locations updated with the collision data included. City staff focused on data beginning in 2021 when a certain section of the Cross Alameda Trail was open to bicycles and pedestrians. Based on follow-up questions, please also see attached a spreadsheet that shows there have been 256 collisions involving either a bicycle or pedestrian on City roads during the period between January 2021 and October 2024, 22 of which were at a “No Right-on Red” intersections. During the same period there were 2,728 total reported collisions and those involving a bicycle or pedestrian are slightly above 9% of the total. See the attached spreadsheet for the details sorted alphabetically by intersection.

Thanks,
Jen

Mayor and City Council:

In anticipation of the November 6th meeting and the referral agenda item on “no right on red” locations in the City, I wanted to provide some background information on from our Deputy Director of Public Works.

Thanks,

Subject: RE: Red light restrictions

Hi Jen,

Please see the attached list of “no right on red” turn movement restrictions. All of the recent additions are related to the Cross Alameda Trail and generally fall into two categories:

1. Intersections with a separate bike / ped signal phase. For these intersections a right turn on red presents a conflict between the bike / ped with right of way and the turning vehicle. Two new signal heads will be installed in these locations, one red/yellow/green for bikes (with a bike symbol) and a separate red/yellow/green arrow to restrict (protect) the right turn movements. These new bike/ped phases will be “turned on” in late October for Park/Clement and in November for the CAT RAMP portion of the trail.
2. Right turns across the bike trail. These movements are restricted through “No Right on Red” signage and are intended to improve the safety for bikes and peds on the Cross Alameda Trail.

I commute daily on the Cross Alameda Trail and have regularly observed driver behavior. Without the turn restriction it was common for cars to pull forward into the trail crossing for better visibility and in the process block the trail crossing. Oftentimes, drivers would not look for bikes or peds (particularly westbound bicycles) and slow/stop in the trail crossing. That, combined with the lack of signal indication for westbound bicyclists created an awkward and sometimes dangerous situation. The new signage prohibiting right turns on red has been up for approximately two months and has already resulted in a safer condition. Most vehicles now stop behind the stop bar and wait for the signal to turn right. Additionally, only the first vehicle has to stop and all other have to wait behind. We have received a few complaints from drivers about the addition delay to wait for the signal and particularly when the school on Third Street lets out in the afternoon. As we complete the RAMP intersection modification project, we will be carefully reviewing the signal timing to see if improvements can be made.

I have requested collision reports for these intersections and am waiting for PD to provide; they are a bit backlogged and unlikely to get the information this week. I've requested the information by next week and ahead of the November 6th Council referral item. We routinely review the significant information reports as part of the Vision Zero team and I do not recall a significant number of incidents on the Cross Alameda Trail.

Please let me know if you need more information.

Scott

Mayor and City Council:

In anticipation of the November 6th meeting and the referral agenda item on “no right on red” locations in the City, I wanted to provide some background information on from our Deputy Director of Public Works.

Thanks,
Jen

Hi Jen,

Please see the attached list of “no right on red” turn movement restrictions. All of the recent additions are related to the Cross Alameda Trail and generally fall into two categories:

1. Intersections with a separate bike / ped signal phase. For these intersections a right turn on red presents a conflict between the bike / ped with right of way and the turning vehicle. Two new signal heads will be installed in these locations, one red/yellow/green for bikes (with a bike symbol) and a separate red/yellow/green arrow to restrict (protect) the right turn movements. These new bike/ped phases will be “turned on” in late October for Park/Clement and in November for the CAT RAMP portion of the trail.

2. Right turns across the bike trail. These movements are restricted through “No Right on Red” signage and are intended to improve the safety for bikes and peds on the Cross Alameda Trail.

I commute daily on the Cross Alameda Trail and have regularly observed driver behavior. Without the turn restriction it was common for cars to pull forward into the trail crossing for better visibility and in the process block the trail crossing. Oftentimes, drivers would not look for bikes or peds (particularly westbound bicycles) and slow/stop in the trail crossing. That, combined with the lack of signal indication for westbound bicyclists created an awkward and sometimes dangerous situation. The new signage prohibiting right turns on red has been up for approximately two months and has already resulted in a safer condition. Most vehicles now stop behind the stop bar and wait for the signal to turn right. Additionally, only the first vehicle has to stop and all other have to wait behind. We have received a few complaints from drivers about the addition delay to wait for the signal and particularly when the school on Third Street lets out in the afternoon. As we complete the RAMP intersection modification project, we will be carefully reviewing the signal timing to see if improvements can be made.

I have requested collision reports for these intersections and am waiting for PD to provide; they are a bit backlogged and unlikely to get the information this week. I've requested the information by next week and ahead of the November 6th Council referral item. We routinely review the significant information reports as part of the Vision Zero team and I do not recall a significant number of incidents on the Cross Alameda Trail.

Please let me know if you need more information.

Scott
