Jean Sweeney and Washington	Natural features and animals, Historical features, such as from Neptune Beach, Northern Waterfront, Alameda Beltline, etc.	Please consider naming more parks after female scientists and activists who worked for environmental causes. We are trying to preserve valuable open public space in Alameda. Those parks should celebrate the people who have advocated for them. I was so excited to learn about Jean Sweeney and show my daughter the park she helped to build. My daughter wants to be a scientist someday and it is invaluable for her to see these public examples. Kate Sessions - American botanist, horticulturist, and landscape architect closely associated with San Diego, California, and known as the "Mother of Balboa Park." Sessions was born in San Francisco, California and educated in Oakland.[1] At the age of six, she moved with her family to a farm next to Lake Merritt. She attended the University of California, Berkeley in 1881 with a degree in natural science. Rachel Carson - American marine biologist, author, and conservationist whose book Silent Spring and other writings are credited with advancing the global environmental movement.
Shoreline Park	Past coaches and athletes	S. C. Gengar Park. S. C. Gengar was a notable heavy hitter in the Alameda esports community before unfortunately passing due to old age. His spirit lives on with those who cherish his memory and carry his game-changing move.
Krusi Park	Past coaches and athletes	S. C. Gengar Park. S. C. Gengar was an important figure in the Alameda esports community who's globally game-changing moves revolutionized the play of many in his field. He unfortunately succumbed to old age in 2016 and is survived by his sibling, H Gengar. His legacy lives on in the thousands across the globe who cherish his memory and still use his incredible "Trio M-Two" technique to this day.

love them all - each has its own gifts	Families/businesses, Alameda service groups, Natural features and animals, Maritime/marine and aquatic features, Historical features, such as from Neptune Beach, Northern Waterfront, Alameda Beltline, etc.	I think the people who know the history and the animal life can tell us best. I love the idea that the name of it gives us something to learn in connection with the park - I think what's important is a link to the place. I wonder if there should be something about the Native peoples for example, but ideally it would be connected. I am curious what was at Alameda Point prior to the naval base. Also curious about stories of women or people of color who are part of the history of the islands and served at the Navy Base. I am curious about Pacific Islanders, Asians, African Americans and their stories about coming here. I believe consulting with people like Woody Minor, Eric Kos, Rasheed Shabaz, and other historians on the city to come up with connected naming would be great. So it's hard to suggest a name without more information about the specific location - but here are types of ideas that could fit: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Snowy Egret Landing - Sea Lion Dock Park - Ohlone Beach Park - Breakwater Beach Park - Least Tern Territory Park - Snow Cone and Popsicle Point (in honor of first being sold in Alameda) - Kewpie Park (in honor of the doll)
