Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I love it! It's great and pops against the brick wall.	I like this one less. It feels bland and blends in to the background too much.	I live in Alameda
I love it!!		I live in Alameda
Love it	cliched. time to look forward	I live in Alameda
Seems kind of "bland". Why just the one bird? And why not a landscape. There's all that space and it's barely used.	Again, boring. It doesn't look alive.	I live in Alameda
My choice	I like the mural but that would be more suited for a building on Park Street.	I live in Alameda
I absolutely love the egret, really stands out and adds a bit of natural beauty.	History is neat, but it doesn't pop as much and the evidence of the rail lines is already everywhere.	I lived in Alameda for years and still love it there
love this one	blends in too much with the wall	I live in Alameda might vote for this selection if it had more nature besides the egret	this is the one I like best	I live in Alameda
	I much prefer this option to the Egret. It's important to continue to tell the history of the island. I also think it's crucial to include an image of the streetcar to also memorialize how our streets came to be.	I live in Alameda
Very cool. Like the cutout concept b/c it adds depth.	I like it but wish it was more like the shadow of the egret. I am not a fan of this being so square. It would be cool if it had cutout of the background and looked like the train was riding off into the mural wall. If so, I'd vote for that one.	I live in Alameda
I love it!	also cool but I like the bird better. I wish we could have both!	I live and work in Alameda
Love it!	Nah - the egret is a stunner!	I live and work in Alameda
The Egret would be a lovely addition to this wall. We all need more connections to nature. This would be a soothing reminder of the birds in our area.	While this art looks well done, it is not as restful as the Egret. We are surrounded by buildings and street views all the time. I would prefer to view something more natural.	I live in Alameda
	I prefer the Park st mural.	I live in Alameda
Yes!	Not as eye catching	I live in Alameda
	I like this one. This gets my vote.	I live in Alameda
	I like it	I live in Alameda
Just ok	Love this	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This is my strong First choice. It's big and bold and totally captures the proximity to the estuary and the concept that Alameda is an island. Compositionally it also stands out on the background of the bricks.	While I like this too, I feel that revitalization of a old area shouldn't celebrate a vignette if an older scene. It's a bit depressing. Compositionally the scene is a little difficult to see and they were too many details for a good viewing..	I live in Alameda
There is no much context from the mural of why it is an Egret.	I like this one better.	I live in Alameda
Nope, many people are afraid of these birds.	Love it!!! I hope this one is chosen!	I live in Alameda
The egret is perfect, please pick that one	Blends with the building too much	I live in Alameda
Nice, but prefer 1909.	Great way to pay homage to Alameda's interesting history. #1 choice.	I live in Alameda
I love both designs, but this one is my favorite.	You can't go wrong with this design as well.	I live in Alameda
Looks really obnoxious and stands out way too much.	Better but also obnoxious. Why not put this on park street where it would be actually relevant?	I live in Alameda
I support this proposal		I live in Alameda
Not much of a Wow factor to most it'll just seem like a random bird.	Really love this one and it's connection to Alameda through history!	I live in Alameda
	Park st 1909	I live in Alameda
	Egret!	I live and work in Alameda
I love egrets. It is actually my favorite bird. But I think there needs to be some background than just a giant egret.	I like that it reflects Alameda's history	I live in Alameda
Love it. I live around the corner and would love to see this design - we don't have a lot of trees or nature in the neighborhood, and this design would counterbalance that a bit.	This is also nice and I like the historical aspect, but it would be less eye catching than the egret	I live and work in Alameda
This great. I do like the simplicity	I don't think this will read well... too details for the space	I live in Alameda
Egret looks very sleek.	I prefer egret over the 1909 Park Street option.	I live in Alameda
I like this one. The connection to nature . It pops from the wall also.		I live and work in Alameda
The egret is my choice.	Colors are too muted.	I live and work in Alameda
I really like the egret, one of my favorite birds to see around here. I like the design here with the use of realistic colors but I'd like to suggest outlining more around it so it seems more natural with its background.	Great design! Again, my only constructive would be to ensure a good border that differentiates the piece from its back ground.	I live in Alameda
♥	Meh	I live and work in Alameda
	Love this but should be bigger!	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This one feels boring.	The 1909 mural seems more like alameda and is classic	I live in Alameda
Love the inclusion of local natural life on our buildings	Still nice	I live in Alameda
Looks great!! especially with the bricks background		I live and work in Alameda
I vote for the egret.		I live in Alameda
The Egret design is a bit of whimsy that makes you smile. It's also true to the artist's other well known works. Would like to see more of this type of public art.	To harken back, I'd prefer restoration of old signs and other Americana similar to what's on Webster.	Lived in Alameda for 8 years and shop, eat and go to the theater (pre-COVID) every week.
	Love the old Alameda mural.	I live in Alameda
Love it!	I hear this a lot. Oh, I wish Alameda could be the way it was a long time ago. Girl please. Things change. Time moves on. I love nostalgia but I think nature moves us farther forward than looking toward the past.	I live in Alameda
Nope	Nope	I live in Alameda
I love this design, it is beautiful and striking. The encroachment of nature in an industrial site flips the usual tale in a way that reminds us all to be better stewards of the island.	I enjoy history and this is attractive but it does not excite me as much as the egret design. The color does not stand out against the brick as well.	I live in Alameda
I like the egret but it looks so lonely. I would prefer to see some context, water, foliage, etc. for it instead of just the brick facade. Thank you.		I live in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
	The egret	I live in Alameda
	Park Street	I live in Alameda
	Yes	I live in Alameda
Egret is my vote		I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret. Would be great if we could also use more of the space to include the bird in context of the nearby environment		I live in Alameda
I LOVE it!!	Please no, it's dull and depressing in a neighborhood that needs color and energy	I live in Alameda
I love this! Anytime we can integrate nature or wildlife into our human-made environment is helpful to inspire us to be aware of the beauty around us, and also to help protect and conserve it.	It's fine, but not "Oooo Ahhhh" inspiring	I live in Alameda
	Love the rail mural. Bonus is it is an educational history of our island!	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
The egret proposal is beautiful. It exudes calm and peace, which I think we can use more of in the current climate. It is a call back to nature, and adds such a graceful balance to the surrounding city. As a native Alamedan, I would be so happy to drive by a giant egret...and may even go out of my way to do so. Thank you for allowing us the input. Warmly, Cassandra Inocencio	I do think any mural is better than no mural at all, but feel the streetcar proposal to lack warmth in comparison to the egret. Its boxy shape and absence of color make it cold/uninviting in comparison. It's cool and industrial...but I'm team egret :).	Born, raised, and reside here on the island.
Yes	No	I live in Alameda
Lovely!	I prefer the egret....I like this one too but I feel it's less eye-catching presented as a photograph with that strict line of demarcation....could the buildings and streetcar be directly on the brick and have the sky and road merge into the wall?	I live in Alameda
It's a nice mural and my second choice	I think this one of old Park Street makes the most sense	I live in Alameda
I like this one	I like this one less	I live in Alameda stupid with no explanation. probably flew in from Oakland anyway.	excellent, shows history of Alameda	I live in Alameda
I love the Egret. I like the contrast of nature & man made.	Nice and educational but not necessarily unique.	I live in Alameda
Love the egret	Nice but like egret more	I live in Alameda
	I vote for this one.	I live in Alameda
I like this one better	Love it but I like Egret more	I live and work in Alameda
It's the Egret by a mile!	It's not the Egret, but it's nice.	I live and work in Alameda
Love it	Boring	I work in Alameda
Egret simple not distracting to traffic	Historic but too distracting to have on the road side.	I live in Alameda
I vote for the bird!	Rather see the bird. Thanks	I live in Alameda
That's very nice and livens up the wall. Beautiful	It ages the brick even more than it already is. Not good. Can we just put the $ back in the generator fund?	I live in Alameda
	Park street 1909!!!	I live and work in Alameda
Stunning! this would be my 1st choice.	I like this, but overall prefer the egret	I live and work in Alameda
	Park street 1909	I live in Alameda
	Park street 1909	I live in Alameda
	Park street 1909	I live in Alameda
Beautiful and classy, #2 choice.	Awesomely historical, #1choice	I live in Alameda
I vote for the egret!	Boring.... the Egret is better	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I love this mural design! As a photographer who uses this wall as a background for portraits sometimes, it would make for an interesting twist. As someone who loves wildlife and particularly birds, I like the fact that it reflects our natural history. Lastly I think it's more aesthetically pleasing than the cable car 1909.	Meh. While I very much appreciate the history of Alameda the design seems awkward in this location.	I work in Alameda
One vote for Egret. Looks great on that space.		I live in Alameda
	My choice is the photograph because it is more immediately recognizable as having significance to Alameda than is the egret.	I work in Alameda
I choose this one, its lovely!	boring nd plain	I live in Alameda
This one looks good.	If this is what it will really look like, this doesn't look good at all.	I live in Alameda
I think this one suits the building and space well. I like the contrast of the white on the brick.	This feels awkward for the space and the sepia tones are drowned out in the brick.	I live in Alameda
I like the egret for this location	I like this design, but think it would be a better fit for a Park Street location with more traffic, ideally at the same point from which the photo was taken.	I live and work in Alameda
Love it!	Meh!	I live in Alameda
I love it! It's beautiful. It captures the importance of our native wildlife and hopefully encourages and inspires future projects to protect and appreciate the local fauna.	It's nice but I usually see these "old timey" murals in places like the walls of a Wells Fargo bank. It feels like corporate art, created to please or pacify rather than inspire.	I live in Alameda
Egret please! This mural has the color and the "NOW" feel this neighborhood needs; whereas the "history" mural in its muted tones would stand out as a contrast in a more vivid, nature space.		I live and work in Alameda
Love it!	Also great but not a new icon like the egret would be. The old timey images are less unique compared with other locations in Alameda.	I live and work in Alameda
I love it — the white bird is striking against the red brick. It also ties in to Alameda's important role in avian conservation.	It's okay and a nice concept but I just think the sepia tones get lost in the red brick. This mural would be better for a light colored building.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I like it but a stand alone egret, seems a bit out of context, I think if there was a plan to paint another mural similar to the egret, such as a cooper hawk or a raven, connecting this mural to that mural would provide the additional context. I like the idea, I like that Alameda is looking into public art, seems like there is a bit of a renaissance with Chochenyo Park being renamed. Thumbs up!	I also like this idea as it brings forth the rich history of Alameda, I think this works as a stand alone piece.	I live in Alameda
Love this! So beautiful against the brick.	Beautiful, and great idea. But the Egret is much more eye catching.	I live in Alameda
My favorite. I like the strong single image, and it shows up well against the red brick.	Afraid the details will be missed by passing cars.	I live in Alameda
I vote for this one!	Cool, but doesn't translate at a distance	I live in Alameda
Beautiful and relaxing to look at.	Hard to read if you are just passing by. Nice idea, poor location.	I live in Alameda
Love this!	Nice, but doesn't pop.	I live and work in Alameda
I like this one. A good strong image and looks balanced.	This just looks like a poster of old times. Blah.	I live and work in Alameda
	Egret	I live and work in Alameda
I really like this choice clear to drivers striking graphic	Love the historical idea but blends into building will become background noise	I live and work in Alameda
I love it! Can we add a couple plants too?	I like it but I like the bird more.	I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret!	Seems a little dull	I live in Alameda
Interesting scale and juxtaposition.	No, blends in and looks like the historical photos that hung in Walgreens in Park St.. Too innocuous.	I live in Alameda
Please do this one	Please do NOT do this one. It's not as good.	I live in Alameda
I love this - these birds appear around the Island and are so majestic.		I live in Alameda
I like this one	Interesting but not as dynamic as the egret	I live and work in Alameda
The egret is a fabulous island dweller. It represents a living, soaring city on the bay.	This is less spectacular as a mural, and literally too backwards looking.	I live in Alameda
Love it. My choice.	Nice too but less striking.	I live in Alameda
I appreciate the connection to wildlife		I live in Alameda
I like but don't love it	Perfect! Yes! I vote for this!	I live in Alameda
I like this one!!!		I live in Alameda
	I like this one best.	I live in Alameda
	I love old photos- so I'm voting for Park Street 1909	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I love the egret and how really ties the naturalness of the estuary into the area. I also live in the neighborhood and often walk past the building and appreciate the brickwork. I think this enhances the building without covering up too much.	I like the design, but I think it's better suited as a photograph on display somewhere. Like how it's featured in the former Walgreens building on Lincoln and Park. Also, it'd make more sense to highlight the Alameda Belt Line which ran right down Clement.	I live in Alameda
I love it!	Not that appealing.	I live in Alameda
Love the Egret	This a a bit boring IMHO	I live in Alameda
I love this one, larger than life size, natural wildlife of the area, just more eye-catching	Love this too but only if on a full wall elsewhere, not partial wall.	Loved in Alameda 5 yrs, across the bridge now in Jingtletown but spend most days in and out of Alameda for recreation and shopping
I love it! Go for this design!		I live in Alameda
Nice	My favorite because of history	I live in Alameda
This is the one ! Will look beautiful ☐		I live in Alameda
	Love them both but like the street car more	I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret, it has an elegant shape but it doesn't overpower the facade	I love seeing photos of old Alameda scenes but this one looks odd on the building, the sepia colors look washed out and are not as eye catching as the egret.	I live in Alameda
		I live and work in Alameda
Dynamic and Striking... looks like true "Public Art"	Interesting, but... plain. Looks like nothing more than a very large old photograph.	Child attends school in Alameda, regular commute through and shop-in Alameda
	Love the egret	I live in Alameda
I love this one, it feels like it pops off the wall and of course our shorebirds are such an iconic part of Alameda. I'd love to see some variants with two or three Egrets. This one feels so much more unique and interesting to me.	This design feels bland and falls flat. While I appreciate the historical aspect of it, perhaps its the sepia on a reddish brick wall that just doesn't feel special. Maybe there is a better location then this one?	I live in Alameda
I pick this one. It's a little simple but that has its own appeal.	Not enough "there". Gets lost. No vibrancy. I vote no.	I live and work in Alameda
I love it	Not very original	I live in Alameda
	Let's honor Park St 1909!!	I live in Alameda
Beautiful		I live in Alameda
I prefer this one - I love walking around the island and seeing all the wildlife in the estuary and bay, it's one of the best things about living in alameda.	I don't really like this one - seems like a departure from his other work, and not in a great way	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
	Streetcar	I live and work in Alameda
Use this one	Boring	I live in Alameda
Pick this one!		I work in Alameda
Favorite	Reminds me too much of an ad	I live in Alameda
Love this! I can see many people wanting their picture standing next to this (would be fun to have children take yearly pictures, and see how they "grow" up along the egret!)	I appreciate showcasing history, but this blends in and doesn't "pop" and make a statement like the egret	I live and work in Alameda
Love it! This is my choice	No thanks- not a great mural subject although an interesting photo	I live and work in Alameda
The egret embodies Alameda today. We all take such delight in catching a glimpse of them, whether wading or in flight.		I live in Alameda
I like this one. Easier to look at while driving.	Not a fan of this one. Too muted.	I live in Alameda
Love the egret!	Boring and uninspiring.	I live in Alameda
Boring, would love if this showed an entire ecosystem	Love this! Alameda has so much history, this mural makes it come alive	I live and work in Alameda
Lovely, graceful, and eye-catching	Nice, but prefer majestic egret.	I live in Alameda
Beautiful and more in keeping with the artist's style. Perfect for the height of the space. Will be a lovely addition to Alameda.	I have no interest in replicating what is already on the Walgreens building on Park street. Not creative.	I live in Alameda
Egret represents Alameda today and a commitment to the marine wildlife and birds.	History is great but something more current and representative like the egret is preferable in this location. Not a good background for a darker mural.	I live in Alameda
Thumbs up!	I prefer the egret design.	I live in Alameda
Yes. It's perfect	Nice. But maybe there is some place more pedestrian to put it.	I live and work in Alameda
This one is great- very whimsical and fun	Boring. Not great.	I live in Alameda
	i love this one!	I live and work in Alameda
This looks peaceful.		I live in Alameda
	I vote for this one. An egret can be anywhere. But 1909 is specific to the island	I live in Alameda
Meh.	Love this! It shows a piece of history of our city.	I live in Alameda
While this is nice, love the street scene	Love this...it's awesome...love to see the history!	I live in Alameda
Yes!	Nope	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I LOVE this! It's so beautiful and I love the larger than life size. It's in keeping with what the artist is famous for and ties us too our neighbors with other murals by him. Most importantly, it remind us of how fortunate we are to be surrounded by wildlife like this iconic egret.	This is nice but not as striking and glorious as the snowy egret.	I live and work in Alameda
Very nice. Would live some other colors like plants at the base.	I like it but it doesn't pop out. Would be better on a different building.	I live in Alameda
I really like this one. The vintage street scene is second choice to this.	This is nice, but maybe more appropriate for a more frequent pedestrian space. I like the Egret better for a higher auto-traffic streets cape.	I live in Alameda
Love the egret!		I live in Alameda
	Love this one! Alameda's history should be celebrated!	I work in Alameda
Yes, vote for the Egret		I live in Alameda
They are both just okay. If you want something with a lot more POP, get Jesse Hernandez to do the mural. His stuff is way more interesting and vibrant than an egret or an old street scene. He has done murals all over the bay area (including Oakland Museum of CA) and he has an amazing style. He's bay area born and raised and he has also done special logos for the SJ Sharks, Giants, A's, etc. Oaklandish even has a special line of t-shirts designed by Jesse (Ancient Roots Collection). He's your man.	They are both just okay. If you want something with a lot more POP, get Jesse Hernandez to do the mural. I feel the Egret mural is more striking and about conservation. It is in line with the message to cherish and improve the environment for all life. Avonnet Peeler		I live and work in Alameda
I really like the connection to his other work and see this bird as reminding Alamedans of our sisterhood with Oakland. Its serenity reminds me of times walking along our island's waterfronts and marveling at the native beauty.	I'm not a huge fan of the scale of this. It seems much too large an image for the size of the wall.	I work in Alameda
Striking! Love it!	This belongs on Park St at the location depicted in the photo.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Cute! It would look good from a distance	I sort of like the idea of historical images, although I also feel that it harkens to the so-called “good old days“ which were anything but good. If we’re going to have something historical, I would rather have a depiction of somebody who was fighting against injustice.	I live in Alameda
	The egret is good to see while driving by, but the street car needs to be installed on another building.	I live in Alameda
Yes	No	I live in Alameda
Although would be beautiful I don't think it belongs.	I like the history!	I live in Alameda
I vote for the egret		I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret, beautiful choice		I live in Alameda
Like the other one more. This looks sparse, and odd.	If you have to have a mural, I like this one. why is a mural necessary though??	I live and work in Alameda
Love bringing in nature	Seems like San Francisco, not alameda	I live in Alameda
	Park street 1909 is my preferred design	I live in Alameda
Really fun and brings a touch of nature into an otherwise urban location. Plant some trees too!	Boring.	I live and work in Alameda
I think it's beautiful. While I appreciate the streetcar photo as a reflection of local history, the egret is more immediate and connects me viscerally to our local beauty. It also softens and brightens the industrial/sprawl feel of the intersection.	I love the photo but dont think it does much for the intersection.	I live in Alameda
Yes please!		I live in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
It doesn't seem like enough. Maybe two or three egrets.	I like it	I live and work in Alameda
This one	This is lovely, but would work better on a scale similar to whatever building it's on.	I live in Alameda
Like!	Interesting but might look better larger or smaller as a window sized look unto the past.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this one. Reminds me of the birds I see regularly during my Alameda Point area walks.	This is nice and historical. It's perfect for a closer to downtown foot traffic area.	I live and work in Alameda
Eh. Nice art but egrets are kinda messy.	Love the nod to A Town history	I live in Alameda
I love the egret! Looks great and is Alameda to me.	This old picture looks dirty. I don't like it.	I live in Alameda
This is my choice, because I vote to include nature in the art! The waterfront is such a big part of Alameda and this egret embodies that.	I like the image itself, but I'd rather not have an urban scene in this urban scene.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This is nice but not overly connected to Alameda	I prefer this one but would like it even better if it was an image with some people in it. Like to see the period clothing.	I live in Alameda
Nice, but the historic photo is richer in meaning and context.	I think this historic photo is the best choice, since it reminds us of the long history of Alameda and honors that past. Plus, many newcomers may have no idea what Park St. once looked like.	I live in Alameda
		I live and work in Alameda
Love this. One of my favorite parts of the coastline	This seems not future facing.	I live in Alameda
I love the boldness of the image. It's bright and I love the connection to nature. I think this design would make me, my children and the community smile every time they see it. It would lift spirits.	While I truly appreciate the history and the beautiful image that this is, I'm not sure it's the right image during this time. I feel like we need to look forward and have our community's spirits lifted with color and life.	I live in Alameda
Love it.	I like the egret more	I live in Alameda
Love this!	Prefer the egret	I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret. Wish there was more to the mural though.	History is nice, but I think we are more focused on moving forward than looking back on our past.	I live and work in Alameda
Very pretty, represents all the beautiful and varied types of birds in Alameda and nearby.	Love the history of this mural. Very cool!	I live in Alameda
Yes this one	Nice but prefer the bird	I live in Alameda
I like it	Colors don't look good on brick. Egret more quirky and cool	I live in Alameda
Bold and beautiful	This, honestly, is ugly	I live and work in Alameda
This one is more calming and peaceful. Modern.	Alameda museum does excellent history. We don't need a giant postcard for a mural.	I live in Alameda
This one.	Nope	I live and work in Alameda
I think the Egret would be better suited in a location other than brick. Maybe also near our Shoreline at the POst Office wall.	This design fits perfectly on the brick background and location. This would be my choice for this location.	I live and work in Alameda
Weird	Like it better than the Egret, but still not great. I love the mural on Bay and Lincoln. Or what about one of our bridges?	I live in Alameda
I much prefer this egret design. It playful and a much more compelling than reproduction of a photo. This is much more akin to their work the artist has done, and that others have done, around the area that are much loved.	The photo reproduction is trite and forgettable. This image will fade into the background and be forgotten. It also has a nostalgic taint, whereas we should be looking to project an image of Alameda that is forward thinking and hopeful. Please do not choose this option.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This is a beautiful mural with important ecological ties.	This seems a bit boring, the colors are less striking and the importance of the scene is unclear.	I live and work in Alameda
Love it! Wish it had something more accompanying it for color.	Blends in too much. Could the mural be different colors to be more vibrant? Also, it looks a bit clip arty, could it have softer edges or even have it look like it is peeking through a broken section of brick wall.	I live in Alameda
Love it! Fun and bold	Nice but not bold enough	I live in Alameda
	This is my choice.	I live and work in Alameda
It would be nice to honor the Egrets who share our island.		I live and work in Alameda
Love it. Graceful and elegant.	Nondescript and boring.	I live and work in Alameda
Love it		I live in Alameda
Live on lagoon... Egrets are visitors often and so graceful. Alameda is fortunate to have their presence. LOVE the idea of a mural honoring this majestic bird. Also a bit whimsical and fun - would surely bring smiles to many..especially the young ones. Great idea!	Think this would not be as easily viewable as the Egret. Not my first choice.	I live in Alameda
I vote for the egret		I live and work in Alameda
Love it!!!!	It is nice but the egret seems more unique	I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret design over the park street design	I prefer the egret design over the park street design	I live and work in Alameda
I prefer this mural	I feel like this would be more interesting if it were a mural of that location. Walking on the sidewalk, it would be cool if you could line up the mural with the street behind it	I live in Alameda
Hum...not sure.	I like it but there is too much detail to look at while driving. It may be a driving hazard.	I live in Alameda
This bird is beautiful and can we please pick a artist of color to Represent our city, even better if it was a female artist	The bird is better this seems a little too much	I live in Alameda
I vote for this one		I live and work in Alameda
Beautiful	Doesn't look well on the brick. Needs a different background color.	I live in Alameda
Yes!!!!	No... does not age well.	I live and work in Alameda
I love egrets and this design is wonderful, but this is my second choice.	This design portrays a significant piece of important Alameda history that should be documented and remembered. This is my vote for mural design.	I live in Alameda

The egret looks lonely!	Could this take up more space on this wall? It would look amazing if it were larger.	I live and work in Alameda
	Egret	I live in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
Very cute! Whimsical. I love it.	Hard to see and kind of boring	I live and work in Alameda
By far the superior design. Clean and vibrant.	Not the right spot, doesn't pop from the brick	I live in Alameda
This one is the one. Put some local flora and fauna around it to represent the sanctuary and tie in why a gigantor egret is an Alameda thing.	Meh. This one looks like someone printed a big pic and slapped it on the wall.	I live and work in Alameda
I like this one but you can put this anywhere maybe even somewhere closer to the estuary or a path along the estuary	This is the better of the two, it gives a glimpse into the past it's a way to show the history of alameda in a photo.	I live in Alameda
Nature, wildlife, beach. Preference to celebrate this.	Industry, pollution.	I live in Alameda history is important, and/but history exists in nature. Do the bird.		I work in Alameda
I like this one best for how bold it is. Can there be an information placard about birds & wildlife in the East Bay?	If this design is chosen, it should be placed in a way that people can stand in front and have their picture taken like they are in the scene.	I live in Alameda
I love this Egret! I think they should do more birds on buildings. I can see flying Pelicans in our future! We have a plethora of birds on this Island. The contrast is a perfect back drop for that elegant bird.	I think this would look better downtown on a building wall that is more monochromatic to the mural.	I live and work in Alameda
Love the Egret. It brightens up the wall and also has meaning. They are commonly seen here and beautiful	Nice but doesn't stand out as much	I live and work in Alameda
	Love seeing Alameda street scenes from days gone by!	I live and work in Alameda
Beautiful but would be better on Bay Farm as the lagoon is full of Egretts!	I choose this one. Gorgeously captures the past!	I live in Alameda
The egret is perfect for Alameda! Love our egrets.		I live in Alameda
Egret is graphic and pops against the building. Great choice!	Beautiful artwork but would work better at eye level at south shore or a park where it could enjoy a captured audience. Not asvisually interesting against the brick as the egret.	I live and work in Alameda
Representative of the beautiful wildlife of Alameda	Beautiful and historic	I work in Alameda
	The egret is a better choice as we need to move forward as a community and to respect, appreciate and care for our environment.	I live in Alameda

Simple and beautiful!		I live in Alameda
I love this!	Meh	I live in Alameda
Yes, great!	I like the Egret more	I live and work in Alameda
Love it! Something very similar but that takes up more of the space (like the egret on marshlands) might look nice too.	It's okay. It would be better if it took up the entire wall but looks muddled and gets lost against the brick	I live and work in Alameda
Love it!	Meh	I live in Alameda
I love the egret. It's unobtrusive, allows the building's beauty to remain while adding some lovely style.		I live in Alameda
The scale is amazing.	Love the historical view of Alameda. Would like to see old Alameda murals around town.	I live in Alameda
It's a little lonely with just one. Can we have another one, perhaps a baby? Love egrets btw	Old pics are great for nostalgia and history but on this scale, I think it just makes the town look old. We need something more alive, current, maybe more colorful.	Decades long resident
Meh	I like that this reflects the rich history of Alameda. Can we add people walking around the image? Modernize it a bit?	I live in Alameda
	I love this one!	I live and work in Alameda
Amazing	Less cool	I live and work in Alameda
Visually stunning	Kind of drab	I live in Alameda
The egret ties the area to our ecosystem and is a reminder of how delicate our earth is. Egrets are beautiful and can also be found in Bay Farm's lagoon. They're majestic!	In my mind this is not representative of the diverse community Alameda has grown to be. It makes me think of times and a history that has been whitewashed.	I live in Alameda
	Cool, but could be nicer if it was more graphic - perhaps "posterized"?	I live and work in Alameda
Yes please. I love it!	No one will notice it as same tones as the brick. Kind of boring. Too much detail for brick.	I work in Alameda
I like the contrast between the organic of the egret and the harsh inorganic of the brick building.		I live in Alameda
It's ok. Kind of reminds me of an advertisement for the zoo.	Love this one! It harkens back to Alameda's history and beautiful Victorian architecture.	I live in Alameda
Love the egret! It says Alameda!		I live in Alameda
Perfect!	Nice but would be better at another location	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This is my preferred mural. It pops from the wall because of the colors and simplicity, and can be appreciated at 1mph or 25mph. I think it will look better as it ages also.	Cool but doesn't fit this space. It kind of takes over the brick wall instead of working with it.	I live and work in Alameda
	This speaks to the history of the island. I prefer this to Egret. I'm not certain that people would geconnection. ction.	I live in Alameda
This gets my vote! I love seeing them on our walks all around Alameda.	This is a close second!	I live in Alameda
Please use this one. Placed on a brick wall in an industrial area, it's unexpected, almost jarring, yet aesthetic to look at. It uniquely defines the space, and the corner it's placed on will soon be known for it.	Not this one. While it might be historic and local, it's also a generic old street scene and doesn't define the corner in any particularly memorable way.	I live and work in Alameda
This is my choice. It grabs the eye but doesn't hold you there having to study what it is.	This would work better in a different location.	I live in Alameda
Not particularly interesting to have just an egret without any backdrop.	Looks like a black and white photo poster pasted onto a brick wall. Not particularly interesting.	I live in Alameda
I like this design but I think the location is bad. It's a wasted effort and money in my opinion given when driving by most people will not see it because they will be parallel with the artwork. I think there must be a better more visible place for some public art.	Of the two I prefer the egret but overall I think this is a poor location to spend funds on.	I live in Alameda
I like the Egret.. feels whimsical!	This is ok. I like the Egret better.	I live and work in Alameda
I like how this design will cover the least amount of natural brick. And, egrets are cool.	Would be nice closer to the shops on Park St., like at the public parking lot behind Tucker's.	I live in Alameda
No	Yes	I live in Alameda
Prefer the egret design	Second choice to egret design	I live in Alameda
Yes I vote for the the egret.	I like this but prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda
	I like this Park Street mural design	Grew up in Alameda
This is beautiful- and the proportions make it eye catching and unique	Its a little random- I like the idea behind it, but I don't think that this spot is the right fit.	I live in Alameda
Love the Egret. Egrets are quiet, patient, and lethal. Clearly, traits we can support.	#teamegret	I live in Alameda
	I love this nod to Alameda's history. The black and white complement the brick beautifully.	I live and work in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Love it - one of the most commonly photographed birds on the beauty of Alameda Facebook page	Not my first choice. Would rather look forward than back - this would be better in smaller poster size somewhere along the street or at a sitting area with text about the history of the site - ideally located at the point or close to the exact view on the photograph.	I live and work in Alameda
This egret will be a beautiful and striking presence. I love its graceful lines and strong contrast to the brick.	While it is an interesting vignette, it's not as dramatic as the egret.	I lived in Alameda for 30 years
Nice	Would be nice to "zoom in" on the streetcar	I live in Alameda
Love it!	Boring	I live in Alameda
I love this design. I wish it were bigger in fact.	Meh. Looks like an Ikea poster.	I live and work in Alameda
Eagret please.		I live in Alameda
I love this. Recognizes the waterfowl that are so abundant here.	Don't care for this one. It doesn't show up well against the bricks.	I live in Alameda
I absolutely adore this. I was born in the Bay Area but grew up in Florida, so it's been a delight to see all the native wildlife overlap between the two, especially the shore birds! I love egrets and it would be so wonderful to see this giant one on a building. I know I would immediately take pictures of it to show all my friends and bring any visitors to see it!	This is also nice, thought in this photo it looks a little awkwardly placed. I love animals above all so I wouldn't be as excited about this choice, but it's definitely still beautiful and interesting.	I live in Alameda
I love the egret, it feels like it brings some life into an otherwise bland (har har) area.	While a cool picture, the egret feels more like art, and elevates the space a bit more than a historic picture.	I live in Alameda
I love it - it really stands out with the white on the brick. Beautiful!		I live in Alameda
	I WOULD LIKE TO SEE THE 1909 MURAL DESIGN	I live in Alameda
Prefer egret	No bueno	I live in Alameda
Love it	Nice, but too subdued	I live in Alameda
Love the Egret and hope Dan can add more wildlife to the wall.		I live and work in Alameda
I vote for this one!		I live in Alameda
The egret brings a level of surprise and delight to the neighborhood while the park st image looks a bit perfunctory. LOVE this one.	While nice, this isnt suprising. I think it would get lost in the mix.	I live in Alameda
The Egret is a stronger graphic design and gets my vote. For someone driving by it will get their attention and be more memorable.		I live and work in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I think this is absolutely stunning. A bold, simple graphic available to people of all ages, children to the very old. Striking and poignant, it's about nature, our ecosystem, it's about life, it's about a brave face and picking your chin up. The egret is so graceful and strong, it makes me sit up a little taller.	It's an interesting photo, but doesn't work well as a mural on that particular background with no "frame". It's mild and quite bland, tone on tone, and doesn't really catch the eye or make much of a statement about anything current or historical. It was like that before. Great. So did we ruin everything? It's not a positive mental conversation.	I live and work in Alameda
I like this one.	Perhaps there is a better location for this. Too much to look at, gets lost.	I live and work in Alameda
Egret get my vote		I live in Alameda
Love this!!	Not as aesthetically pleasing as the egret.	I live in Alameda
Prefer the egret		I live and work in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
Beautiful egret, but I like the other one more.	I prefer this one....love the history behind it!!	I live in Alameda
Egret		I live in Alameda
Love the egret!	Like the egret a whole lot more.	I live in Alameda
This is a wonderful homage to our local ecosystem. The egret is elegant and has had to endure what humanity has forced upon them - and has done so with grace. The bright color on this brick building is striking and provides positive emotions. Let this be the beginning of a wave of public art in Alameda!! ART FOR ALL!	While I love the throwback to the early days of Alameda, this is a dingy picture that doesn't depict anything particularly positive or relevant to our island city today. Don't get me wrong, I love old photos of our city, and I'd love to see more of them prominently displayed, however this is a fairly bland picture. Regardless of the outcome of the voting, please let this be the beginning of more public art in Alameda. ART FOR ALL!	I live in Alameda nice, but the 1909 historic image is much more "this is specific to Alameda"	this one, the 1909 Park Street image !!!! this is much more specific to Alameda than the egret image, which is nice but not as engaging.	I live in Alameda
	I prefer this one! I love the historic tie to the town.	I live in Alameda
Definitely YES	Does not stand out from the brick.	I live and work in Alameda
Boring	Love this great flashback to Alameda's roots	I live in Alameda
Yes!		I live and work in Alameda
This is perfectly nice, but I prefer the other design. So many real egrets to see...no way to see 1909 unless it's painted here!	Love it! So fun to preserve and share some Alameda history this way.	I live and work in Alameda
Beautiful combination of art, nature, and modern industry.	Not as bold on the brick. Understand the history but doesn't feel fresh and relevant to today's Alameda.	I live in Alameda
I like this one best		I live and work in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Absolutely love it, especially knowing the artist was also responsible for the giraffe murals in Oakland. Love the idea of native wildlife on our main drag, and the tie to the bay that makes alameda so special.	It's wonderful but doesn't look as naturally integrated as the egret- less like part of the streetscape and more like a photo on a wall.	I live and work in Alameda
This is not my choice.	This is my choice	I live in Alameda
love it	Meh	I live and work in Alameda
Awesome idea!	I think the bird is a better choice	I live in Alameda
This is beautiful . I think nature is the right choice	Not as bright and doesn't stand out	I live in Alameda
Love it! Striking, modern and high contrast... Would maybe add some additional details (plants, hint of shoreline, perhaps)?	Interesting but doesn't stand out in terms of color nor design. Feels very temporary and more like those temporary scenic photos that cover construction areas in malls.	I live in Alameda
I love it! I definitely think it is more striking and invokes the tidal marshland that is around Alameda	I like it, it invokes a nostalgic feeling of Alameda's history	I live in Alameda
Elegant, inspiring, makes me smile	I love the connection with the past, though some may not realize we had street cars once?	I live in Alameda
While it is beautiful, it is not as thought engaging as the other mural.	This piece is more thought provoking and connects past and present Alameda. This mural is my first choice.	I live in Alameda
	I really like old photos, very cool.	I live in Alameda
	Park St 1909, love the old photos of Alameda and would love them as murals on buildings.	I live in Alameda
Love this. It's striking and beautiful and hints at all the bird life in the estuary (and in Alameda in general). Plus white birds evoke peace.	Interesting but not exciting.	I live in Alameda
Yes to the egret!		I live in Alameda
Simple. Elegant. Surprising. Fun.	Interesting subject, boring execution. This same subject could be done with some life + vibrancy through use of color, playful use of line, etc.	I live in Alameda
Egrets are delightful to look at, BUT I prefer the Park St. mural because it gives the public a sense of how far we've come. No to the egret.	The street car line is truly part of Alameda's history. It also depicts the beauty and original details of the city's architecture and overall feel. Men used to tip their hats and people respected one another more. This is also a reminder that we can be better at how we conduct ourselves in society than we currently do now.	I live and work in Alameda
	Egret	I live in Alameda
This one! Love it!	The color on the brick makes this too subtle	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Beautiful	I like this better. Very cool to see Park St. in 1909.	I live and work in Alameda
I love this mural. It is cheerful & peaceful.	Nice photo but kind of depressing.	I live and work in Alameda
Voting for this one only because building isn't really on Park Street. Would need another egret mural elsewhere to link. Maybe on HBI or near South Shore. One isn't enough.		I live in Alameda
This is bold, topical, and signature 'Dan Fontes' work. Just a stunning piece that references the natural beauty of the island.	This is a gorgeous depiction and so intriguing historically. I would love to see it on an actual Park St. location! (Like: what about the alley across from the Alameda Ave intersection?)	I live and work in Alameda
I love this design		I live in Alameda
A vote for egret! This is modern, very cool. It will catch attention and pause for thought where the other mural (in this location) might be more easily overlooked. Great choice!		I live and work in Alameda
Love this and the energy it projects!		I live in Alameda
I like it but think it needs a little more, maybe some plants and water at the bottom?	Could this be livend up with some color or something? It's very bland looking.	I lived in Alameda for 3 years, recently moved away but still visit often
It is beautiful but it is a little scary to see a giant bird like that. I prefer the other	I love this one because Alamedans live our history. Drunks might drive into it though.	I live in Alameda
this is beautiful!	this is boring	I live in Alameda
I love it	This is a nice picture, but not suited for a mural	I live in Alameda
This might frighten young children.	I like this one better. It provides an opportunity to reflect upon and talk about our history. This one is much more of a conversation starter, which I appreciate.
This is fun & would be eye catching tho it's a bit "sparse" (of course these birds often are seen alone). Could jazz it up by giving egret a fish snack. In keeping w our bay side community. Good contrast w brick background. Either image would be a lovely add!	I love old photos & information & references to Alameda's rich history - there should be a whole series of such images & mini histories around the island (a treasure hunt exercise for residents & tourists), but this particular image, placed as it would be, not on Park St proper & being somewhat nondescript might seem out of place &/or confusing to the observer. It's just not that eye catching - maybe needs to be bigger to be impactful or blown up to focus on the streetcar? That said, either image would be a lovely add!	I live and work in Alameda
Yes to egrets!!	Too dull for a mural. Maybe an info piece on a stand?	I live and work in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
	I prefer the 1909 mural.	I live in Alameda
Very nice! Beautiful pic and I like the meaning behind it.	I like this idea very much too! Both are great options.	I live in Oakland and often shop, dine, take classes, and socialize in Alameda.
Love this one. Really represents our island city.		I live in Alameda
Love it!! My kids will be excited every time we go past it too.	Love the idea of it, but more easily overlooked.	I live in Alameda
I love this one!!	This looks too much like the window displays at Walgreens	I live and work in Alameda
Yes!	Meh	I live in Alameda
This one! Brings a bit of nature to an industrial street.		I live in Alameda
I love the egret. Clear, elegant, simple.	This scene isn't interesting, bland blends into the bricks.	I live and work in Alameda
	EGRET got the win!	I am a visitor
Amazing	Less cool	I live and work in Alameda
I like it	I like this too	I live in Alameda
This is so elegant and just stellar! A great addition!!!!		I live in Alameda
This one will look much nicer. It doesn't look like a poster and will not distract too much on the wall. Very beautiful bird. Goes very well.	We all love our Alameda History just don't think this one would fit right on the building. It's off centered and dry.	I work in Alameda used to live here in my early days and spend more time here than home.
Love this, really stands out	Like the image but too understated for the brick wall. Would love to see it elsewhere in town on a white or colorful wall.	I live in Alameda
This is life that can breathe oxygen in our lives. I vote for the egret.	So much racism back then so keep that history in the archives and not in our face.	I live and work in Alameda
Beautiful and simple	Too busy	I live in Alameda
	I love this one. It shows how great and old our city is! This one PLEASE!	I live in Alameda
My first choice.	I like it but not as well as the egret. Would be better if it covered the full height of the wall.	I live in Alameda
I feel that the Egret greatly represents the island in its proximity to the estuary and the natural life and ecosystems it provides on the crown beach side. I like having the egret or any form of native animal as it connects us back to our natural surroundings and environment. I also LOVE the zebra murals and so the artist who did those I would love to have create our egret!!		I live in Alameda

	I appreciate the historic aspect of this one!	I work in Alameda
Yes on the Egret!		I live in Alameda
Really striking, unique. I like the juxtaposition of the natural world with an industrial building. And it fills the space well!	Doesn't feel as unique. What is the story? What am I meant to feel?	I am a visitor
Yes please	Really nice, but no	I live in Alameda
Subject and design are nicely suited to this space and location.	I love this design and think it would be fantastic on a wall in the downtown Park Street area and less visually interrupted by street signs and brick surface.	retired AUSD teacher
Gorgeous	Very bland, needs color	I live in Alameda
Yes! Egret!		I work in Alameda
Yes		I live in Alameda
I think this is a great idea for a mural and I love what it symbolizes.	I do not feel that this mural option is as strong as the Egret. I don't associate the historical streetcar with Alameda very much at all.	I live in Alameda
I love the egret! I like the contrast against the brick and prefer the sinewy profile over the boxy landscape with tram. The egret is much more eye catching.	Hard to read, not enough contrast, dull color scheme. I much prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda
This looks nicest and most positive association		I live in Alameda
	Choose	I live in Alameda
Love it, very striking	It doesn't stand out as much as the egret	I live in Alameda
I love the Egret! It's perfectly reflective of Alameda, and I love the Giraphics, so I'd love to have another giant animal near home.	This is cool but not as cool as the egret	I live in Alameda
	Love this picture. This one has my vote.	I live and work in Alameda
I prefer the egret over park at 1909.		I live in Alameda
This one with More animals/birds	I love it but very detailed and on the small side.	I live in Alameda
	I like this one	I live in Alameda
Not a good idea	A damn good idea	I live and work in Alameda
	I do like to see the history of Alameda here.	I live and work in Alameda
Cool concept, but kind of plain. If there is more around the Egret, I would be much more interested in this design idea.	Love this idea! I'm not sure if this is meant to be in sepia when done, but this idea has a lot of potential, especially if colors are played with.	I live in Alameda
Love it - surprising and a nod to our natural surroundings	Don't love itX concept is nice but gets lost on the brick.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I think the egret is more enjoyable when driving and who wouldn't enjoy seeing this beautiful bird...		I live in Alameda
Like it wish there was a bit surrounding it	Boring	I live in Alameda
The egret's color is white. It has more contrast against the background which easily makes a bigger impact. Because it is an animal, it is more peculiar and eye-catching than something you regularly see in the city.	Minimal contrast against the background / similar color as the background. Image is of a street, so at a glance you may think it is just another street.	I live in Alameda
This one!	Nice idea but not as pretty	I live in Alameda
Egret		I live and work in Alameda
It is beautiful but doesn't make sense to me, unless there were more murals of wildlife around town.	I like the idea of having old Alameda "postcards" .. but to make sense they should be all around town..maybe even near where they were originally taken. I vote for this one.	I live and work in Alameda
LOVE IT	That's nice	I live and work in Alameda
		I work in Alameda
Definitely the Egret. It pops! Both ideas are great but this one is something people will be drawn to		I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret!		I work in Alameda
Love it. I vote for this one	It's okay but a lot of alameda murals dwell in the past	I live in Alameda
	Park Street 1909 is fabulous	I live in Alameda
Preference would be to the Egret. It's not only relatable to Dan's previous work in Oakland, it would also be a softer more artistic piece specific to our region. Many cities have murals of street cars and times of the past. I believe the Egret would add more character, and a younger hipper vibe to the area and Alameda. :)		I live in Alameda
Egret is bold and visible - I like it!	This is a lovely mural but I don't think this is a good place for it.	I live in Alameda
Represents a reminder to protect nature	Really cool design. Wish we could do both	I live in Alameda
	Lovely	I live in Alameda
No	Yes	I live and work in Alameda
Egret	Wonderful as a photo, wrong as a mural.	I live in Alameda
Love it	This would be better if it was painted in color as the street was back the.	I live in Alameda
I love this!	I think this design is good but I think it would be better in a different location. I am not a fan of this against the brick.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Cool but does not inform anything or anyone.	It is always nice to remember the history of this place, this design informs and educates the public so I think it is more appropriate than the Egret option.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this one!	This one does not look good here. Not a great mural for this particular building- maybe a different one.	I live and work in Alameda
I like the Egret mural because I like how the egret looks and I like how it's placement and size off to one end of the building balances nicely with the rest of the brick wall.	Not fond of the Park Street 1909 mural for this particular building and for this area.	I live in Alameda
I love this, not just showcasing our city's love for nature, but it is just adorable.	Go egret. This will not weather well.	I live in Alameda
The Egret is lovely, but I don't associate egrets with Alameda. Seems like a stretch. I prefer the other choice, Park Street 1909	I absolutely LOVE Park Street 1909 with Alameda history. My first choice. Thanks for asking.	I live in Alameda
Love that this one conveys a locally prominent snd gorgeous bird.	Love that this conveys a locally relevant scene.	I live in Alameda
	Egret	I live in Alameda
	This one is my favorite! It's gorgeous.	I live in Alameda
	This one is my favorite.	I live in Alameda
Love it!		I live and work in Alameda
I love this one!	Interesting but of history but visually not as appealing on the side of a building as the egret.	I live in Alameda
It's great! Would love it looking the other direction (instead of at the ACR sign).	It's nice but won't draw as much photographic traffic as the Egret.	I live in Alameda
I love the egret. Beautiful birds which can commonly be seen in the estuary.		I live in Alameda
Better contrast and more simple design is far more impactful.		I live in Alameda
Lacking visual interest	Lacking visual interest	I live and work in Alameda
Supports nature in an urban environment	Supports urban history in an urban environment (I don't believe this level of detail will hold up over time)	I am a visitor
This would be ABSOLUTELY iconic and give Alameda it's own version of the locally famous Giraffes and Zebras in Oakland. The Egret really feels in line with Alameda	this feels very generic and corporate art-like	I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret. The mural proposal is so much more striking, and I love murals that incorporate natural elements.	The sepia tone combined with the minute details of this mural will detract from its effect on vehicular traffic passing by. Perhaps with more color/contrast and a larger sized cable car it could be improved.	I am a visitor

	I think a glimpse into the past is a great reminder to where we are now and will get us to think about what our future will look like next.	I live in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
Like can it have more stuff with it	Cold it be in color?	I live in Alameda
	Yes. Love the contrast of the immediate area and what it used to be	I live in Alameda
Nope just looks to random	Yes love the nod to the past	I live in Alameda
Love this one	Not so fond of this one	I live in Alameda
Egret please.	Egret	I live in Alameda
Love this	Meh	I live and work in Alameda
This egret design highlights Alameda's unique shoreline & wetlands with it's larger-than-life scale and counterintuitive location. (please paint the building downspout to blend with building's facade)	Too busy visually for an effective outdoor mural (though, allows downspout to blend in !)	my daughter lives on Shoreline Dr.. I have visited Alameda several times .
Love this. Very artistic. Colorful	No so much. Don't look back. Too old fashion.	Born and raised. Lived there 35 years.
Love it	Feels dark. Good for a print maybe not a mural	I live in Alameda
	My vote is for this image. I live in the neighborhood of the mural and think the feel of this image fits more with the history and serves as a reminder especially as the tracks have been paved over. The other design would be more fitting near the beach area.	I live in Alameda
Love this! I feel it provides a good connection to our outdoor environment and serves as a reminder that wildlife share our ecosystem and we need to do our best to protect them. I think this is the perfect image to be placed in an industrial area for exactly this reason	While an interesting concept it's just that. It doesn't not evoke an emotion or create positive action. I feel like once you have seen it one time you are ready to move on and it fades into the background	I live in Alameda
Love it!		I live in Alameda
Prefer presenting Alameda's relationship to the water and natural habitat. Love the Egret	This mural seems too detailed to be appreciated while driving or riding a bike	I live in Alameda
I like this one better.	I like this one also but it needs to be in a place to walk up to and enjoy.	I live in Alameda
Love this one		I live in Alameda
Love it! Very striking.	Interesting, but not very visual.	I live in Alameda

This design is far superior to the other. It activates the entire wall/canvas. The scale is great! And the one line bird seems to be active. It has movement. The asymmetrical composition is great. I WANT to look at it. It captures an environmental sense of place in a whimsical way. It also is iconic and memorable.	I appreciate the nod to history. But the composition is static and lacks interest. The smaller square on a bigger square makes it seem like resources ran out rather than activating the entire wall/canvas! I also prefer public art that is less literal. Give me something that piques curiosity. The huge scale on one bird is insanely more interesting than a historic document applied to a wall. Might I suggest QR code stations that - when you click on them - show a historic photo of the location? I get that it's staff resources...just an idea to honor the history.	I just moved from here and visit often.
I love this image and this should be the image used.	I like this image but this should be on another building.	I live and work in Alameda
Egret!		I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret!!	I like it but Egret pops better on the brick	I live in Alameda
Love this Egret		I live in Alameda
I like the way there's no hard lines just the bird	I don't quite like the proportions with it being a squarish frame on that much larger wall	I live in Alameda
Love it! Even better would be one of the shorebirds that are more numerous along the edge of Crown Beach.	Nope. Pretty drab.	I live in Alameda
Stunning	Cool photo. Not sure it makes a fun mural.	I live in Alameda
My choice; beautiful and elegant, and a reminder that we are all visitors and must continue to live in harmony w/ nature.	Nice; but not as inspiring or visually striking as the Egret.	I live and work in Alameda
I pick this one. I'm excited that Alameda is doing this.		I live in Alameda
So much more elegant. Blends in and brings our nature to the forefront.	Love the element of history, but Alameda can do a much more innovative job of integrating these elements into public spaces. This looks pasted on. No art integration here.	I live in Alameda
Yes		I live in Alameda
This is lovely, and the scale looks good with the building.	The color contrast with the bricks isn't enough	I live in Alameda
Love this!!!	Not my favorite - the idea is nice, but the tones are not welcoming.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this		I live in Alameda
Beautiful! This one stands out more to me. The other mural is also lovely. I'd be happy with either but this one is more vivid.	I like this a lot. It's let's vivid to me than the egret.	I live in Alameda lovely, but I prefer the other one	love this one!	I live in Alameda
yes! love the egret!	prefer the egret	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
		I work in Alameda
Love this.	I like this one but would preferred this to take up the full wall and be facing the same direction. I suspect this would mean this mural would need to be on a wall facing the other direction and possibly be located further down the road on Park street. Regardless, both are great ideas and additions to an otherwise blank canvas.	I live and work in Alameda
Beautiful!	Cool, but not as pretty as the egret	I live in Alameda
I love it. Are you able to add a little habitat too?	This looks more like Starbucks	I live in Alameda
Love this one	It's ok. But not eye-catching.	I live and work in Alameda
	I love this mural of Alameda long ago.. It keeps us connected to the way it used to look and makes me proud to live in beautiful Alameda .I'm especially fond of this artwork because my great-grandmother lived in Alameda and this is what it looked like. Thank you for sharing your beautiful art work	I live in Alameda
Love it but wish it didn't compete so much with the tacky 'Ace' sign.	Real thing would hopefully fill out the whole space on top, bottom and left sides.	I live in Alameda
Love this, marries nature with this man-made structure and pops!	Very nice but doesn't pop without color.	I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret!	Not so much	I live in Alameda
Beautiful	Not so beautiful.	I live in Alameda absolutely, the egret!	while nostalgic, this also represents the beginning of irresponsible industrialization that has put us in our current climate catastrophe. we have an opportunity, through art, to remain a progressive, green, forward thinking city. I say we look even farther back, to the original inhabitants of this land; Egret, Curlew, Grizzly, Coyote, etc.	I live and work in Alameda
I don't think the city should pay for this right now	We have other things the city should spend money on	I live in Alameda
	The Park Street mural reflects the history of Alameda. Much prefer this mural.	I live in Alameda
I love the image; however it could use some additional elements to create better impact.	As much as I love a good historical photograph, it doesn't translate well as a large mural.	I live and work in Alameda
Its ok	Love it! I haven't seen many murals like this one.	I live and work in Alameda
I prefer the egret		I live in Alameda
Yes please!		I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Love it	Nice, but doesn't grab me	I live and work in Alameda
I strongly support the egret as it symbolizes balance, determination and looking forward. This is what Alameda needs at this moment in time and to remember into the future. This symbol is multicultural and is found in Chinese and Indigenous cultures. This also is a beautiful symbol of our island town with many egrets on our shores and lagoons.	I strongly disagree with this image as there are already many historical images around town and again, we need to look forward not backward.	I live in Alameda
The egret has enough contrast so that it can be seen quickly. Beautiful.		I live and work in Alameda
I like the Egret option better than the Park Street option because you can make out the details from further distances.	It's difficult to make out the images in this Park Street option.	I live in Alameda
	I choose this design, this shows a snapshot of this city's history.	I live in Alameda
Prefer egret		I live in Alameda
Like the simplicity of it	like the idea, but this it too busy for a mural - not sure the detail would look good in passing	I live and work in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
Yes!		I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret! The style ties in nicely with the other mural artwork we have around Alameda.	This seems out of place, in my opinion, considering scale/color/etc. I could see this more likely being vandalized.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this. Its striking contrast to the red brick is beautiful and the connection to the estuary is timeless.	Nice but Alameda is not all about the past abs antique stores. Too much looking back. The same mural in the alley where the Park Street post office would be nice. But I'd rather see the timeless Egret when entering Alameda.	I live and work in Alameda
love it	boring.	I live in Alameda
Love the egret mural! It is fun and unexpected—a nice tribute to the birds who live nearby.	While this mural provides historical background, it's not as fun or unexpected as the egret.	I live in Alameda
Vote for Egret is best		I live in Alameda
I prefer this design. This design is striking and celebrates the natural splendor surrounding us. It leaves room for future art of the same subject (our natural surroundings) throughout the city	I do not like this design - it is too busy and not vibrant enough to be seen and interpreted by people driving by	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
	Love the historical one! Maybe it could tie in with the various plaques on Encinal about the old street car system. What a great way to honor Alameda's past.	I live in Alameda
Yes this one is more bold and works with the brick	Like the idea but not for this wall please! Covering up that lovely brick too much and too detailed for this location	I live in Alameda
	Use Park st. 1909 and keep Alameda history alive	I live in Alameda
Love it.	Okay, but dull.	I live in Alameda
Egret is not something I necessarily associate with Alameda, but I love the scale and simplicity.	Too detailed to take in as you are moving by it. Would be better in a park or somewhere more inviting to stay for a while	I live in Alameda
LOVE it but would love to see more... maybe wetlands extending across the wall into abstract?	Ok. Cool nod to history but not exciting	I live in Alameda love this! Please do this one	very cool	I live in Alameda
I choose Egret!	I like this less because it's sepia toned and looks weird cropped. If it covered the entire brick portion (top to bottom) I would enjoy it more.	I live in Alameda
	Egret for sure!	I live in Alameda
I prefer the egret	A black and white historic photo such as this should be much larger, ideally filling the entire side of the building... Then it might be spectacular!	I live and work in Alameda
Love this!	Beautiful, but doesn't stand out.	I live in Alameda
Beautiful! Bright and calming. A bit of added greenery or a larger nature scene would be nice as that corner seems lacking and that's a big brick wall. But this one for sure!	Love the idea, but this photo is dreary, dark and grim. Kind of spooky and drab from a distance. Doesn't beautify the industrial area.	I live in Alameda
I love that it doesn't have a background, and just uses the brick of the bldg as one. It makes it really blend and feel like part of the bldg. A beautiful juxtaposition of natural and industrial.	The concept is cool and the image interesting but it is far less striking, as a mural, than the egret. Blends in too much.	I live in Alameda
i prefer the egret . i think it's more visually inviting		I live in Alameda
First choice!	Second choice. I think this is too muted and difficult to view on a busy street like Blanding.	I live and work in Alameda
This is my favorite. Love the birds!!!		I live in Alameda
I vote for this Egret		I live in Alameda
Yes, I vote for this one.		I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I love the egret design/image. It is stunning against the red brick.	I like the idea of the streetcar image. But it does not have the wow factor that the egret does. I prefer the egret design.	I live and work in Alameda
	Egret	I live in Alameda
This would be my preferred design. Like how it interacts with the flat wall. Hopefully will be a reminder of our current ecosystem	Not my preferred. Time to be in the present	I live and work in Alameda
I like the egret, I think the scale is awesome.	I think the margins look weird on the top and bottom.	I live in Alameda
This is my choice! It's beautiful, vibrant, contrasts well against the brick wall, and it's a beautiful representation of the wildlife all around Alameda and especially so close to the estuary there.	No thank you. Fun idea, but I do think it works well on that particular wall.	I live in Alameda
Yes	No	I live in Alameda
	I prefer this piece; remembering historical Alameda is cool & important.	I live in Alameda
	Please add my vote to this mural	I live in Alameda
I vote for the bird		I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret design. Would love to see more local birds on other buildings too.	The trolley design is nice, but the egret design speaks more to the present and the future and the importance of environment. Given where we are now, looking to the future feels more important than reminiscing on the past.	former resident who still spends much time in Alameda
	I think it could be really neat if the mural told a story about that location using photos. Like yes the Alameda traction railroad ran on this stretch of clement ave. Or maybe a picture mural on park st. where people gathered to communicate before phones and such. This city offers so much great historical content that it should be remembered.	I live in Alameda
Meh, doesn't feel vibrant enough	More interesting but this is a driver's view mainly, so hard to appreciate the detail	I live and work in Alameda
Egret. Egret High-stepping through a pond would be cool.		I live in Alameda
	This has my vote	I live in Alameda
yes!	no!	I live in Alameda
I like the egret & nod to our natural environs	The historical touch adds interest & depth to our community. Nonetheless I prefer the Egret.	I live in Alameda
	Looks amazing!!!	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Love the eye catching size, color and representation of wildlife local to the area on what appears to be a blah industrial warehouse style building.	The photograph rectangular border makes this mural ineffective. I love the idea of capturing a historical photo, but would be more effective if the border was faded, curved incorporated with the curved lines of the egret, etc. Putting a square mural on a very square building only accentuates the boring components of the brick building. Choosing brighter colors that play off the brick background or incorporating curves would make this mural a much better candidate.	I live and work in Alameda
I like the egret, but would prefer the historical mural.	I prefer the historical mural. As we make more street changes in Alameda, this Miral would give a window to the past.	I live in Alameda
I LOVE THE EGRET! Very dignified, just a little whimsical, and super cute.	I don't like this one as much, it's very "billboard" feeling with the rectangular shape. Would want something with this theme to go sidewalk-to-ceiling, or maybe have a border (like a view into the past). The egret is better.	I live in Alameda
Egret		I work in Alameda
	The historical photo is a nice idea, but the egret is bolder and more eye-catching.	I live in Alameda
This would be my first choice - lovely!	This would be my 2nd choice, but it's a close one!	I live and work in Alameda
I like it; clean, simple, eye catching!		I live in Alameda
I prefer this design. It's lovely and so nicely connected to the estuary across the street.	I like this concept, but feel that it would be better positioned on a building on Park Street. I think if this one is chosen it could look like it's trying to show the history of this spot, not just Park Street nearby.	I live and work in Alameda
Might cause confusion as to what this means. Seems random.	Like it best	I live in Alameda
	This is the more appropriate mural for this location.	I live in Alameda
No thank you. Maybe another corner?	This is great!	Born and raised in Alameda
	Egret!	I live in Alameda
I love the Egret! The Egret is a big part of our current eco system and represent a part of our cities bird population.		I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret, grabs your attention	Doesn't look like a mural, more like a stock photo from ikea	I live in Alameda
This is the best one		I live in Alameda
The egret is so beautiful.	The 1909 mural is so historic!	I live in Alameda
Love this design	I do not like this design. The egret is much better	I live and work in Alameda

I like it. I love bringing in the nature of the area.	I like it. Nostalgic and reminiscent of historic Alameda.	I work in Alameda
Love this one...		I live and work in Alameda
	Do this one!! Love it.	I live and work in Alameda
Yes, I love this striking, startling appearance of the egret against the brick wall and in the urban environment. For a unique addition to the landscape, I would choose this.		I live in Alameda
Love it!	It's fine.	I live in Alameda
	I like the glimpse into the past	I live in Alameda
It stands out as a unique piece of art. Where else wold you see an image of an egret on a building	While admirable, is the corner of Everett and Blanding the place for this image?	I live in Alameda
I vote for this one	Why not put this mural on Park St., on the side of a building where the photo was originally taken? Nice little look into the past, while you're standing in that very spot.	I live in Alameda
This one! So dynamic and fun	It kind of just disappears	My family lives in alameda
I love this egret mural! Bringing a bit of nature to Park St. would be so refreshing.	No, thank you. Too old-fashioned. Let's honor where we are as a community and hopefully looking forward.	I live in Alameda
Love it! Goes right along with Dan's other animal murals.		I live in Alameda
No	Preferred	I live in Alameda
No	Yes	I live in Alameda
This is barely a mural. Do we seriously have so few artist submittals that this would even be considered? Look at the hundreds of amazing murals across the bridge in Oakland. Why is there no actual mural "design" in this egret?	This also is not a mural. It is an old photo blown up in size. So un compelling, it is really disappointing. Again where is the artistry here? I never heard anything about proposals for this mural. Please give us more options. Take a trip across the bridge and you'll be inspired. Don't settle for mediocrity.	I live in Alameda
	I love the egret	I live in Alameda
The egret would be my choice. It reflects the natural environment that surrounds Alameda; it is beautiful.		I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
See the comment of the alternate concept below. Again, no design, no inspiration, no interest. There are so many great murals in Oakland.	I love old photos however this proposal for a Mural is simply uninspired, ordinary and banal. I would not even categorize it as a mural. Murals are typically "Designed" and have some concept. There is NO design, simply an old photo placed on a brick wall. At least add something inspiring or designed like some text that says "Alameda". Something, some color blocks, some designed elements, anything. Do you have anyone with an art background reviewing these proposals?	I live in Alameda
The egret is striking against the brick wall and brings the much needed attention of the wildlife here in Alameda.	Seems to be better against a different backdrop but still very nice, not as striking as the egret.	I live in Alameda
The egret is great, the best design for the space.	While like the idea of using historical imagery in alameda, I much prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda
Beautiful! Stunning. And i saw egrets here all the time on south shore.	Doesn't look great as a mural. Visually unappealing.	I live in Alameda
Beautiful	Very nice, I like the historical aspect	I live in Alameda
I like the egret as it is a simple design that represents Alameda/CA well!	I do appreciate the historical aspect of this mural but I wonder if it may be confusing to see as it is a picture of a street at an intersection. I also feel like this mural would be more fitting on Park Street.	I live in Alameda
Love it! Looks beautiful.	I like image but not there, needs a smaller wall. Should take up the entire wall. Looks funny here.	I live in Alameda
I love the egret as it's just more esthetically pleasing to the eye.	Although historical context is admirable, it done find it as esthetically please and wonder if it might distract passing cars who might want to checkout details.	I live in Alameda
Striking street art!	History is great, but the image feels lost among urban clutter	I live in Alameda
	I love both, but prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda
I like the color aspect and think this is more relatable to kids.		I live and work in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
Egret is my preference. Striking, simple and clean design.	It's a nice idea but too complex, subtle and hard to tell what it is at a glance.	I live in Alameda
I vote for the Egret!	This is a nice photo but doesn't catch my eye or make a statement like the Egret one does.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this design. Perfect for the little city by the bay!	Not as inspiring as. The animal.	I live and work in Alameda
	I like that this shows the history of Alameda.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
	I prefer the Egret. People driving by will get more out of the simple design.	I live in Alameda
This one is better of the two proposed designs as it will be eye-catching and distinct	This does not excited as a work of art. Just a large photograph highlighting a streetcar system that no Alamedan has a memory of and therefore may even think it is San Francisco	I live and work in Alameda
I like the nature connection	While this is beautiful, it is not a bold enough graphic as the egret	I live and work in Alameda
Great	Great	I live in Alameda
The egret is my first choice not only because it reflect part of Alameda's ecosystem but also because I believe it is less likely to invite graffiti.	I lie this mural...perhaps on a building on Park Street.	I live in Alameda
Please use the egret!	Egret is nicer	I live and work in Alameda
My vote is for the Egret for the sheer beauty of it.		I live in Alameda
	I love the history of Alameda. "Park Street 1909" is definitely my favorite!	I live and work in Alameda
This feels out of place in a more urban setting	I prefer this	I live in Alameda
Love it!	Also nice but not as eye-catching	I live in Alameda
Love this one		I live and work in Alameda
This one gets my vote.		I live in Alameda
I like this	Would like this more if the image moved to the edges of the wall all thew way down to the ground.	I live in Alameda
	Park Street 1909	I live and work in Alameda
Love the Egret! It feels quintessentially Alameda.	This mural blends into the building too much and gives it an old run-down look. The art is beautiful but it's placement here detracts from its beauty.	I live in Alameda
While I think this is important, perhaps a sculpture to showcase the abstract lines of those lovely birds would be best suited commissioned and place somewhere in town.	I think this couldn't be more appropriately placed on a brick wall in Park Street. Alameda History is so rich and beautiful, we should continue to showcase and honor it with art like this!	I live in Alameda
This one is good	This one looks like a weird ad.	I live in Alameda
LOVE!!!	Sort of gets lost, doesn't make me smile like the other one does	I live in Alameda
LOVE IT!!!!	Like this one too, but I vote for the egret	I live and work in Alameda
I think this is the best option!	I don't think this is the best place for a mural like this	I live and work in Alameda
Looks like a stork missing it's baby bundle	The historical image is nice	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Love Dan's work and here get of this is great as it is larger than life-great. I would say more than one bird to reflect the ecosystem of the estuary and have Acr move the logo over for more art - more birds.	Historic picture is not useful here the foot traffic is very slim and drivers won't see it much and the light at night needs to be addressed. This seems an old answer for Alameda yes it's old and that's what we've taken as answers for public art in other areas go with the bird but more than one please.	I live in the neighborhood
Gorgeous mural. I think it compliments the building really well and helps add some life and softness to the industrial look.	I think this is a nice mural. It's nice to remember what came before so we can imagine the future! I personally like the bird better but I don't think you can go wrong.	I live in Alameda
The egret design is by far my favorite (even though I prefer night herons).		I live in Alameda
Live it!!!!	Though historical, doesn't resonate nor feel familiar. Also, lack of color is a little depressing. Doesn't go well against brick.	I live and work in Alameda
It shows up well from a distance	I like the history of this mural but feel it needs to be less busy maybe focus on the streetcar more	I am a visitor
1st Choice	2nd Choice	I live in Alameda
Love it	Blah	I am a visitor
Love it!	Good picture but does not work for me on that background. Would be good in a different location.	I live in Alameda
Nature. Beautiful.		I live in Alameda
In favor of the egret		I live in Alameda
It's beautiful and decorative. But I'm not sure it is the sort of mural I would really look at twice.	I prefer this one. It is unexpected and evokes a mood. If I were walking by, I'd look more closely often. Standing next to it, it would make me imagine being in that world. I can imagine kids asking questions and the scene sparking conversations	I am a visitor
I love it! It stands out and is related to the wildlife in the area. It's beautiful too.		I live in Hayward but visit often
I like this because I walk the beach daily. The birds are glorious.	this one speaks to me less to me, but it fits the location	I live in Alameda
This design is elegant and innovative. It is my preferred design and I would love to see more like it.	This design is too familiar in Alameda, where we often celebrate a romanticized history (such as Neptune Beach, and other former street car stops). It would not be as innovative though I admit that it would not stand out either.	I live in Alameda
I vote Egret!! ☐☐☐		I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I do not like this because it is very simple and plain. Sure egrets are all over alameda and people see them a lot but it would be nicer to see more history of Alameda!	I love this a lot better than the egret. The egret is too general of a theme. I love the idea of a mural of the old park st. I think it would bring a lot more history to the city instead of an egret.	I live in Alameda
	This would be more fitting. However, an homegrown artist from Alameda would be more fitting. There are talented artists that were raised on these Alameda streets. Well before all of these outside commercial artists stepped in. Feel free to contact me Dylan.rivera69@yahoo.com -Dylan	I grew up in Alameda
The Egret is my choice . . .	Love old Alameda photos but don't prefer this mural in this location. The Egret is better.	I live in Alameda
Choose this one		I live in Alameda
I like this one!	Seems odd to glorify a street on a different street. Confusing too	I live in Alameda
I love it! Go for this design!		I live in Alameda
Interesting I guess.	This one is awesome!!	I live in Alameda
I like it better. It goes with the theme of the giraffe and zebtmra in Oakland from the same artist.	I like it less. It looks out of place.	I live in Alameda
	This would be more fitting. However, an homegrown artist from Alameda would be more fitting. There are talented artists that were raised on these Alameda streets. i love it, is is simple and striking.	i am ambivalent.	I live in Alameda
	I vote for the park-street 1909 mural!
Interesting I guess.	This one is awesome!!	I live in Alameda
Yes!!!!		I live in Alameda
I think this is the best option!	I don't think this is the best place for a mural like this	I live and work in Alameda
I like the idea of the Egret or similar local bird; great Heron or osprey. It is calming to see nature.. I prefer this one over the streetcar.. I am afraid with as much graffiti, tagging that is so prevalent now, the mural will be covered up with in months		I live in Alameda
Love	Not enough contrast	Own a house

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I love the egret! Numerous studies have shown that seeing nature, even just a depiction of it, brings a sense of well-being to the viewer. At the same time, the egret is a common feature of the land, and is a great reminder to take care of the area. It is peaceful and thoughtful at the same time. People will overall benefit from seeing it.	This is one of those murals you have to get out of the car and look at to appreciate. The area really doesn't lend itself to doing that. Who is going to have a picnic and stare at the mural? Speaking of the mural, it doesn't have contrasting colors in of itself, and is actually sort of hard to see on a brick wall of similar colors. A statue or some other 3D art would be better to reference history.	I live in Alameda
I like the simplicity and it's nice to see a giant bird, but it doesn't feel like alameda.	I like this concept better but not the design. It feels too busy and dull. Maybe if it were in bold colors. This just looks like a photograph on the wall. It would be cool if it was just the street car and buildings maybe	I live and work in Alameda
Yes on the Egret mural here in this location for contrast and juxtaposition.	This mural is very cool and should go at the depicted location on Park St.	I live and work in Alameda
I prefer the Egret.	This is good, but the Egret is better.	I live in Alameda
yes I would choose this mural. It's beautiful and simple and we have wonderful wildlife here in Alameda		I live in Alameda
Love it! Stands out. People remember it! Creates opportunity to imagine the waterside a block away. The corner becomes "The Egret". People will go to see it. A placemaker for Alameda.	Not new. A throw back. A little curious, but not compelling.	I live in Alameda
The contrast between the industrial building and the natural subject is nicely arresting.	I like reminders of Alameda's station neighborhoods but this feels disconnected - less an anchor to the neighborhood and more a form of nostalgia	I live in Alameda
Unless there were some surrounding freestyled graphics, the connection that's trying to be made here to the ecosystem is pretty dry.	Context always matters! This would be dope if mural could span ALL of the brick work (if you made the street wide, the ACR sign could sit directly on the neutral colored sky	I live and work in Alameda
Yes. The egret should become our island bird. I see it in the lagoons all around the island. And this should be the mural.		I live and work in Alameda
The egret by itself seems odd—it needs some background or something with it. I'd vote no on this.	I love this mural, it celebrates the history of Alameda.	I live in Alameda
Egret.		I live in Alameda
Love the egret! Definitely prefer this one, it's more striking.	This is a nice idea, but I prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
Love this design! It emphasizes Alameda Island with its abundance of birds and wildlife. Very beautiful!	Looks a little boring.	I live in Alameda
1) I definitely prefer the Egret to the historical design. I would suggest, however, POSSIBLY consider adding in, or substituting a Snowy Egret image by the artist. BECAUSE the Snowy Egret is the official bird of Alameda, which was chosen as our city's official bird some 30 or 40 years ago. Egrets, including both Great Egrets & Snowy Egrets can be seen on many shorelines of our island city, not only on the Estuary along Blanding Ave. Both species also nest in our town, too. Formerly, I was the Executive Director of Golden Gate Audubon and had surveyed an egret nesting colony IN ALAMEDA for San Francisco Bay Bird Observatory for many years. I would be glad to work with the artist to provide photos and reference images for any bird artwork he wishes to produce.	I prefer the more visually delightful egret that still thrives in Alameda to the historical image of the town's streetcar that no longer exists.	I live and work in Alameda
LOVE IT! CERTAINLY A POSITIVE ADDITION TO BLANDING STREET AREA	IS THERE ROOM FOR THIS ON THE ALAMEDA MUSEUM???	I live and work in Alameda
	While I love the Egret, the history of Alameda is amazing. My vote goes to "Park Street 1909".	I live in Alameda
Yes. It's perfect	Nice. But maybe there is some place more pedestrian to put it.	I live and work in Alameda
Love the Egret. Very visible.	Nice picture, but not for mural. Too dark, does not stand out enough.	I live and work in Alameda

I love this design. It is clean, simple and yet striking. Just as the giraffes are iconic to the Oakland/Harrison exit, I imagine this will be too.	I love a good toley image. That said, I prefer the egret.	I live in Alameda
I like this design it's simple and cars will be less distracted	This is nice but hard to view from a car and will be more distracting for drivers.	I live and work in Alameda
Very nice and bright. 🙌	Boring yet historical. 🗿	I live in Alameda
If representing the wildlife is the goal with this one, I think it could be done more artistically. This just looks like a picture of a bird...on a brick wall. It's very dull and if I didn't read what it was about, I would see that and ask, "what's with the bird?" A beautiful painting with lots of different animals and some greenery would be much better. And it'd get the point across much clearer, in my opinion.	Maybe a close-up painting of the streetcar would be more visually appealing. This is very dull, it's supposed to be a mural not a history textbook.	I live in Alameda

It's pretty and works well with the vibe of alameda	I love this one! The history of alameda is often hard to see so harkening back to the city's history and potentially having residents ask questions about why the city is the way it is now, etc. is a good thing!	I live in Alameda
Yes, the egret is awesome!	Nice, but not as great as the egret.	I live in Alameda
Love this one!	This doesn't look like a mural to me. It looks like a photo from the front of Walgreen's (which, granted, is now closed).	I live and work in Alameda
I love the egret - simple, understated and yet very striking	I struggle to really imagine how this busy image will translate onto the wall.	I live in Alameda

The Egret is my choice. Bright, clean, a little surprising (makes me smile).	This one is not my choice for this location.	I live in Alameda
Love it, stands out and looks great.	It doesn't show up very well, too detailed and busy.	I work in Alameda
I prefer this one. Choice number one.		I live and work in Alameda

Elegant birds but very boring for a mural.	Also boring for a mural, compared to the awesome murals in Oakland.	I live in Alameda
This is the better design.		I live and work in Alameda
Of the two designs, I prefer this one. The egret pops off the building and the scale is a fun juxtaposition with the architecture.	This design is difficult to see from a distance and the monochrome color palette is very dull. I would prefer the egret design over this one.	I live in Alameda
What I like about the giant egret, aside from its simple beauty, is that it represents how I experience the unexpected glimpses of these wild animals in the midst of our island city, reminding me of the importance of our relationship to/fellowship with Nature.	I do love seeing renderings of our history, but the busy details of this image against the brick wall is not as striking from this vantage point. Rather, it would be better appreciated up close.	I live and work in Alameda
The Egret is marvelous! We enjoy seeing these birds along the Alameda shore and choosing this image speaks nicely of our island habitat.		I live and work in Alameda

This would be a wonderful addition! Dan Fontes has been doing excelent mural art for years, and is very competent!	Save this one for another location. The egret is much more vibrant and memorable!	I live and work in Alameda great ! . . . and do more birds all over town !	Too much detail, less impact. Do this on Park Street !	I live and work in Alameda
Love the egret!		I live and work in Alameda
My vote is for the Egret. It's a nice use of the space and I like the wildlife message it sends.		I work in Alameda
I love this! First choice	Although beautiful; I'm not interested in the history as much af the future of Alameda. This would be my second choice	I live in Alameda
		I live and work in Alameda
I think he is a wonderful muralist and his work will enrich the walls. I am a fellow muralist and have seen his work for 30 years. You couldn't ask for a better artist to paint a mural here.	Dan is an artist who is sensitive to history and will do a great job on either subject.	I live in Alameda
I love it! Very eye catching and highlights the environmental preservation in Alameda.	Also a good idea nit as easy to read from passers by.	I live and work in Alameda
I love the egret design	I would like this better if it took up the whole wall	I live and work in Alameda
I like the Egret best. It's a better fit and something Dan is known for, wildlife in urban settings.	While interesting this just doesn't work as public art.	I live and work in Alameda
I think this egret is spectacular and well represents the bird sanctuary and highlights Alameda's history as a migratory bird stop over and a calm sanctuary in the Bay Area	Will be pretty unnoticeable and blend with the city. Also bland colors. Might show better in a different setting. Honestly we have so many beautiful buildings in town, I'd rather look at them, than a painting of them on a bland building!	I live and work in Alameda
	Egret	I live and work in Alameda
I prefer the egret design because of its reminder of how near the natural environment is to the site. If another grant is made, maybe some appropriate background flora can be added.		I live and work in Alameda
I love this one!	It is nice to show the past, but I feel like I've seen so many images like this.	I live and work in Alameda
I like the bird a lot! It's very striking!	This image kind of blends into the wall.	I work in Alameda
Yes!! The egret is beautiful. I hope there will be more than one in the final design.	No -- It's hard to tell what the image is at quick glance, especially if you are driving by.	I work in Alameda

This is a nice and simple design. I like the symbolism of the egret.	This is a great concept, but it doesn't blend in with the wall that well. It would be nice if somehow it connects with the street visually.	I live and work in Alameda
Yes	No	I was a visitor
Bold and appealing without being too distracting. I like the simplicity and the contrast with the red bricks.	Nice but not as exciting as the egret. Blends too much with the brick.	I am a former resident who still participates with the art community in Alameda.
The Egret feels more organic and whimsical	Antiquated and uninspired theme	I work in Alameda
Alameda has Egrets from Bay Farm water lagoon to the Point in West Alameda. I think this is the best choice because while history is important, I believe that the Egret would be more inspiring to those walking or driving past.	The historical one is more subdued in grey, black, and white. The Egret is more pleasing aesthetically. As a long time Alamedan, I much prefer the stand out of the Egret. More comments under the Egret mural above.	I live and work in Alameda
I much prefer this one to the older one. It is a great giant natural bird. How lovely!!		I live in Alameda
This is elegant and interesting to look at from afar. Easy to see either in car, on foot or bike.	Harder to see and understand if traveling by quickly (car or bike). Also, this is not Park St, so seems odd to have the picture at this corner. Not as interesting visually.	I work in Alameda
No	Yes	I live in Alameda
The egret works better visually and conceptually.	I like the idea of showing Alameda history, but the photo doesn't work well on the brick wall. Also, that photo of historic Park Street would make more sense on Park Street.	I live in Alameda
	I LOVE this - it honors our history	I live in Alameda
Love the egret, I like that it ties in with the giraffe and zebra ones in Oakland. I grew up here and always loved those giraffes since my grandfathers house was near those. Excited to have one of our own in Alameda.		I was raised in Alameda, and currently live here.
I love it. I love having larger-than-life wildlife, and the lack of a background.	This one stresses me out, for some reason. I love historical photos, but the mural doesn't seem very interesting, in part because of the rectangular background and boring palette. Maybe it'd be better if we had a different viewing angle of the building. It feels like the artist got the suggestion to do this photo or something else, and the artist really wants to do the egret. (To be clear, I'm all for letting the artist do what they want!)	I live in Alameda

An oversized egret would be enjoyable to see. It contrasts well against the brick.	I appreciate the historical thought, but the sepia toned photo doesn't stand out very well and is not quite as enjoyable as the egret	I live in Alameda
I like the strong dynamic lines of the egret ...this would be my pick of the two	The historical aspect of this piece is appealing but i like the strong design of the egret better.	I live and work in Alameda love it. this would be my choice.	I like this one but not as much as the egret. Honestly, this one would look better on a much larger scale. If this one extended closer to the "ACR" and to the top and bottom of the brick, I would think it was more interesting.	I live in Alameda
	The Park St. street scene seems the most appropriate	I live in Alameda
Don't care for egret. How about something that lifts our spirits?	Cultural change is part erasing histroy.	I live in Alameda
It is striking! I love it.	Lovely, but does not attract attention as the egret does.	I live and work in Alameda
	I realy like this one, better than the egret	I live in Alameda
Egret would be beautiful mural! That would be my choice!!		I live in Alameda

Love it!!!	Would be difficult to grasp if driving by and seems it would be more appropriately placed on Park Street.	I live in Alameda
I love this one, it is actual art.	absolutely not, it isn't art it is an old picture.	I live and work in Alameda
This one!		I live in Alameda
My vote is for this mural. This design is beautiful and really stands out in contrast to the brick wall. Given the Oakland estuary and how plentiful egrets are around the entire island I really think this fits in well.	I appreciate the history and significance of this design; however, I just personally don't feel that is the right location for it. It doesn't stand out as much as the egret does visually.	I live in Alameda
This is my preference. Further, the theme of Birds of Alameda can lead other initiatives		I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
This is by far the more visually pleasing of the two. But both of these lack creativity and look like a first draft. I get that it's public art and so can't cause any controversy, but there is no story or even connection to place. Yeah- there are egrets near by... and? What about the history of the Japanese Americans who lived around here and were interned? And who now continue to have a strong community in the near by Buena Vista church? Or sea level rise? Or wetland restoration? Just drive through Oakland to see far more relevant murals. This is 2021- we need to have smart art.	This doesn't even seem like an idea. A photo on the wall? How does that photo even show a significant moment? The US built ships right here that were the backbone of our Pacific fleet during WWII. Tribes of the Ohlone fished in the marsh. If we want a historic image- there can be some deeper thinking and referencing. Why is it one moment in time? Why don't we creat connection across time? And get rid of the hard edges, either create a border, or loosen the edges... so many things.	I live and work in Alameda
Definitely prefer the egret to the other option.	This mural is not as compelling.	I live in Alameda
I think this fits well in the space. The bright white is appealing and attention grabbing. Egrets live in Alameda. It's nice to see them represented.	I think the image is a good one, but I don't care for it on this wall. It's dark against the brick. It looks dingy. I'd also like this image better if it were larger, more spread out. It somehow looks busy and cramped in the small section of the wall.	I live in Alameda
we need to honor wildlife before they disappear, the size of the mural and design have the overall best visual. it's beautiful	while nice, sizing and coloration does not work in this location	I live in Alameda
This is great	I think it would fade over time.	I live in Alameda
I love it! I love the giraffes and zebras in Oakland and this connects us to our neighbors both in Oakland and in the water.	I wish we still had a streetcar, but these old images of the past so not inspire thoughts of where Alameda is going in the present and future.	I live in Alameda
Good egret!	It doesn't seem very happy.	I live in Alameda
The egret is beautiful and reminds me of one of the many reasons I love Alameda, which is the sealife and coastal birds.	It's time to look forward, not backward.	I live and work in Alameda

	I always like animal murals and I drove by one in Hayward that showed native wildlife in their parks. These can be enjoyed by all ages, ethnicity, political beliefs, etc. as animal art is universally admired and appreciated. Since Alameda is an island city, there are many land and sea animals that could be represented here. I vote for the Egret. I love the simplicity and uniqueness of the mural. It always makes me happy to see such beautiful graceful birds.		I live in Alameda
	I enjoy seeing a bit of Alameda history displayed. I love the egrets but they are still easily seen in the estuary.	I live in Alameda
I LOVE this mural design and what it represents for Alameda.	This would be a terrible design for a mural. The picture/mural is very interesting but the details are small and drivers would not be able to appreciate the details as they drive or stop to see it unless they got out of their cars. This is a busy street and it would be a distraction for drivers, bicyclists and pedestrians. Please do not choose this one. It wold be great in the alleyway/walkway near Tomatina.	I live in Alameda
I prefer this, and maybe add some of our other wildlife, eg -harbor seal, shorebirds, terns	This is a nice picture but I think adds to the drabness entering Alameda and is not the best use of this site	I live in Alameda
Love the Egret! It's looking forward and is pleasant to see. It shows life and vitality.	The historic mural is looking back, not good. No life to it. Blah. Nothing shared with Oakland.	I live in Alameda

I like how this fits on the building; it looks more natural than the other option.	I like the idea of looking into Alameda's history, but this particular design/mockup doesn't really seem to go with the building as well. It looks less like a mural and more like a photo stuck up randomly.	I live in Alameda
Love this!	Doesn't do it for me	I live and work in Alameda
Love this design!	Interesting idea but a bit too visually dull.	I live and work in Alameda
I like the Egret mural design best. It reflects the beauty of nature that is the best part of Alameda. It is lively and colorful. Visually very interesting.	I don't like this. It is hard to read. Brown and blends into the brick wall. Not very interesting visually	I live and work in Alameda
This is so elegant and just stellar! A great addition!!!!		I live in Alameda
I prefer the Egret design because it's unique and stands out.	This image looks like a poster that may have been placed on the building at an earlier time and doesn't stand out unless you happen to walk by.	I live in Alameda
	I prefer the 1909 mural. It would be best if it is an actual view of the street in front you?.The egret looks too fierce.	I live in Alameda
Looks great, striking and visually interesting	I like the historical element, better if not sepia. Why not give a view of the past in color, it would better bring the past and present together. Love to have a Webster view on Webster.	I live in Alameda
I like this one!!!		I live and work in Alameda
I prefer this design because it is simple and brings a bit of nature into the industrial area. It is bright and cheerful.	The overall feeling of this design feels a bit dreary and not uplifting like the egret.	I live and work in Alameda
I love this design! Celebrates our ecosystem, egrets symbolize peace, good luck, and balance. Makes me hopeful for our city's future.	Let's not do this one. It's nice, but not super inspiring. Too much focus on the past and less focus on the potential for the future.	I live in Alameda
	I like the Park Street 1909 because it reminds us of how Alameda has changed and gotten better.	I live in Alameda
A beautiful reminder of the great white egret that adorns and embellishes our shores	While I love historical photos, this is too busy for beauty. And possibly even dangerous to drivers on Blanding taking their eyes off the road to see all the detail	I live in Alameda
Grabs your attention. Egrets are all over the island. It fits.	Belongs on park st. Gets lost on the building.	I live in Alameda
It's nice but I'm not a big egret fan overall.	Love this!	I live in Alameda

	Like both, but prefer the egret because the 1909 design requires attention, and I don't see how it can get that attention as people drive down the street.	I live in Alameda

	Park Street 1909	I live in Alameda
This is beautiful and would be a nice way to bring some nature to this block.	This is also a great idea. Either mural would be a welcome addition.	I live in Alameda
	I like this mural design - go for it!	I live in Alameda
Beautiful! Like the idea of brining nature into a cityscape. Simple and also sophisticated. A bit more around the egret would be nice- some marsh plants or may be another egret as well. Lots of open space on the wall.	Interesting. More cerebral than the egret. Historical is nice. Seems there is a lot of that in Alameda already with the old- timey shop fronts and buildings. A picture of a building on a building seems redundant.	I live in Alameda
Love the Egret, without regret!	Ehhhh!	I live in Alameda
		I live in Alameda
The most striking	Historic	I live in Alameda
I like the beauty and simplicity of the egret	Seems out of place at this location	I live in Alameda
Love it...any way we can find space for both designs?	Same as above!	I live in Alameda like the incongruity of the bird in this context	does not stand out enough to be noticed	I live and work in Alameda
I really like this proposed mural design - a little whimsical, easy to visually parse, striking, positive ecological message, and well compliments the space.	Not crazy about this design - looks like a misplaced billboard photo but with too much detail. Also, the misalignment of the square image with the building's edges, the bricks, and the corner telephone pole triggers an OCD response.	I live and work in Alameda
This image stands out against the background of the brick wall. It's better suited to the space.	My issue with this image is the sepia tone. The sky bleeds into the road and there is little definition.	Long-time resident priced out of my hometown
I believe that it doesn't fit well and will probably be defaced or designed over since it would be all white space.	It makes sense to place here, however, it will most likely be dismissed as too out-of-place by itself. Overall, this would make better placement over the egret.	I live in Alameda
Choose this one! Alameda is a former marsh that egrets still visit. I also like the framing of the bird against the underlying brick. Yes, I am a bird lover.		I live in Alameda
I like this simple & elegant reminder of the wildlife that used to inhabit our beautiful area in greater numbers. What a great inspiration for children to strive to restore our Estuary to its former wild glory	I like history. I wonder if we can restore light rail to Park St to better connect our Island to Oakland. But I don't get this mural for this location	I live in Alameda

Much prefer the Egret over Park Street 1909 mural design. It brightens up the space. Brings a little more nature to the area. When the Egret mural is completed, visitors can't help but take notice. Good choice in artist and mural.	While this picture is a thoughtful option, it appears a bit dreary and gloomy. People could easily pass by and not notice it. Not opposed to it, just would like to see the Egret mural design chosen.	I live in Alameda
Absolutely love it. It is stunning! Beautifully represents Alameda. It immediately brings me to my walks along the beach or along the trails on Bay Farm. This type of animal artwork seems to be where the artist's talents really shine. I have admired the freeway giraffes of Oakland for many years. Alameda would be so lucky to get our own animal art piece by this artist.	Sorry but it's boring. It looks like a blown up photo from a magazine, history book, or an old postcard. It doesn't capture my attention.	I live and work in Alameda
Love it- hopefully more local animals and some greenery can be added?	Too industrial	I live in Alameda
Love it! Reflects love of nature & our location in the bay- bird sanctuary!		I live in Alameda
I love the idea of the Egret! It's beautiful to look at. But also a connection between the wild life in our back yards. We need more of these points of art and beauty in our lives.	Don't like the colors or image	I live and work in Alameda
I really like it and i really like the painter of it.	it is too detailed and won't look good in a few weeks.	I live in Alameda
Very cool symbol of Alameda, crab cove, birds...	Beautiful mural but its not as bold and simple as the egret.	I live and work in Alameda
Love this egret design!	I like subtlety but this cool and relevant photo is visually uninteresting compared to the egret design. It disappears. I would enjoy seeing this historic photo on a lighter colored building... but not as much as I would enjoy seeing the egret.	I live in Alameda
The egret is statuesque and beautiful and my first choice. The image is timeless and it's obvious to the viewer what it is.	The historic Park Street streetscape belongs actually on Park St. I vote "no".	I live in Alameda

Please share your feedback on the proposed Egret mural design here.	Please share your feedback on the proposed "Park Street 1909" mural design here.	What is your connection to Alameda?
I Love the Egret design for the mural..not only because of the proximity to the Oakland Estuary but because it is soothing and peaceful to view and all the better for being in an industrial area to remind you of the natural ecosystem located nearby...you can take a deep breath and view the beauty of the Egret while you are doing whatever it is you had to get done in this area...sweet!		I live in Alameda
Looooove it -- so beautiful!	It's something I'd want to look at in a museum once, but not see every day. It's not as visually interesting, especially against the brickwork.	I live and work in Alameda
I think that the egret would be really cool to see when I'm driving by because I'm a HUGE animal lover!	I think that it's really cool to see what park street looked like back in the day like 1 or 2 times but after a little while it gets pretty boring to look at unless you're a history geek and fanatic which I am not.	I live in Alameda
It's beautiful, and I think reflects the Island. This looks like a piece of art.	It looks kind of random on the side of the building.	I live in Alameda
Eye-catching, but underwhelming.	I like this one, love history, but it just seems out of place and lack of color is dull. Maybe colorize the trolley?	I work in Alameda
